This Is PRINCETON

TEENS TO HAVE LOUNGE

Date To Be Set Soon. Princeton's teen-agers at last have "a place to go." Within the next few weeks, a "Drop-in Lounge" (not to be confused with any "Drop-out Lounge") will open for all Princeton teen-agers on the ground floor of Dorothea House at 120 John Street.

It will open its doors every afternoon, Monday through Friday, at 4 and leave them open until 7. It wil be a place to relax and enjoy yourself, to have a coke and play a game and talk to friends, with a maximum amount of just freedom. There will be adult supervision and a paid director, but no organized activities.

The lounge is the product of agreement between the YMCA, which controls Dorothea House and a committee of the Council of Community Services. It is quite frankly experimental. Its opening date and its basic policies wil be set this Friday at a meeting between the YMCA's committee and the Council group.

Money is the key to its successful operation. Money, adult volunteer support — and acceptance by the young people of the community.

Support? The YMCA has asked $10 a week for janitor, light and heat. The lounge will need, as well, money to pay its director and either the money to buy equipment or donations.

Ultimately, the Council of Community Services hopes for broad municipal support from Borough and Township and the assistance of the new Recreation Director whose title has been budgeted by both municipalities.

Until then . . . anybody with an open checkbook and an open heart should get in touch with Mrs. Howard Fox, 8 Newlin Road, 921-6387.

How about the teen-agers themselves? Overwhelmingly, they told the Council of Community Services in a professional survey made last year, that "a place to go" was the big thing they wanted in Princeton.

Well, now here it is. How will it go?

Slowly, perhaps, at first. A lot will depend on word of mouth. Much will depend on the kind of supervisor, and the respect and affection he earns from these young people.

Young Want To Help. So far, boys and girls who have heard about the lounge are eager. With all due acknowledgement to Miss Fine's, P.C.D. and Stuart Country Day, the lounge will probably be an extension of Princeton High School.

"We want to decorate in blue and white because those are P.H.S. colors, and we want a bulletin board with announcements of P.H.S. events," said one boy, "and there are some guys in shop who want to make the furniture — you know, tables and the bulletin board and things like that."

Hopefully, the lounge will appeal to both the ping-pong and the pool crowd. Adults may be mystified by this subtle social distinction, but if you're 16, you know which one you are. (Anybody got a pool table to donate? A ping-pong table? Call Mrs. Fox.)

Through a committee of a dozen or so high school students, boys and girls themselves will be brought into the management of the lounge. Already there are young people with this kind of experience, because a Princeton Youth Center has been in operation at the Odd Fellows Hall for more than a year.

Three's A Crowd? Council members tremble a little when they think of the 800 Borough and Township students at Princeton High, and the modest dimensions of Dorothea House. But what adult likes a restaurant with only one other couple in the corner? A crowd makes a good time and a chance to meet somebody new. And a crowd will mean that the lounge is a success.

The Council committee consists of Kenneth Michael, Mrs. Gerald Breese, Mrs. Howard Fox, Mrs. D. Barton Stevens, Mrs. Richard Schoch, Mrs. Carolyn Adams, Roger Carrington and Mrs. Horace Boynton.

Frank Clark and Walter Surg of the YMCA staff, and Charles Hurford, John Mount and Thomas Jones of a specially appointed committee, represent the YMCA. Mrs. Paul Bortell, who preceeded Mrs. Boynton as president of the YWCA, also took part in the discussions.

Adults Care Deeply. Adult Princeton's concern for its teen-agers is continuing and anxious, despite a shameful history of non-support for teen-age canteens.

Lectures, panels, workshops are continually being held by the YWCA, the Family Service Agency (see "Topics of the Town"), church groups and PTAs in the hope of crossing what Gerald Breese referred to at the latest YWCA panel as "the yawning chasm between generations." ("Does any parent," asked Mr. Breese, "really understand the new math?")

What about these Princeton teen-ager? Do they have a different complexion from other teen-agers? Not really, says Mrs Elizabeth Trimble, director of the Family Service Agency.

Like youngsters everywhere, they are struggling for independence, afraid their parents will make fools of themselves, unsure of their own footing.

Academic Pressure. But in Princeton, there is a persistent insistence on academics which has insinuated its pressure into every social level of the community. Parents who never had a chance to finish high school are determined to graduate their children from Princeton High and get them into college. Parents with PhD degrees are determined to get their children into Harvard and Radcliffe.

"Academic pressures . . ." Mrs. Trimble shakes her head. "I have seen Princeton parents moan because an attractive, normal child with a wonderful mechanical talent wasn't gifted academically. This child can feel he's let his family down, and tremendous damage can be done. Parents need to evaluate what IS the important thing for MY teen-ager?"

The prevalence of academic values seems to have made a line of cleavage in the P.H.S. student body. Parents at the YWCA panel spoke of the scorn with which acalemic students regard the so-called "hoods."

One parent suggested that it was good for the "hoods" and the "non-hoods" to rub against each other. Another remarked that non-conformist with a high I.Q. might be taken for a "hood" by an unsophisticated 17-year-old!

Plenty To Do. "There's nothing for us to do," teens used to say. But more and more, this seems to be a myth. Teen-agers, in charming mimicry of their elders, belong to innumerable discussion groups, especially in churches, where they talk about race relations, smoking, drinking, sex, God, Panama and party crashing.

Many have a surging drive to "DO something." More teens apply to Camp Brotherhood than the project can accommodate. Teens call the Council of Community Services to ask for something to do. They spend their summers working with migrant children in Cranbury (more volunteers than were needed, last year). They organize . . . witness the off-shoot of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

Those with different interests sniff out Princeton Community Players and frequently get a chance to act in a real, adult production. Three girls at Princeton High have been singing with such remarkable success at high school dances that they may be on the brink of a professional contract. Boys meet at a school gym on Saturdays (and evenings, last summer) to shoot baskets with frightening skill. Both boys and girls sign up with YES, hoping for a job.

Home or Lounge? Up to now, of course, it has been true that teens have had "no place to go." At a recent meeting of Trinity parents, someone suggested that more parents ought to open their homes after the movies, not for elaborate parties, but just for snacks.

The shining and saintly example of opening one's home is, of course, Mrs. Carolyn Adams. A year ago, during Christmas vacation, she turned over her Clay Street apartment, not merely to her own children's friends, but to any young and lost soul who needed a place to mark time until school began again.

Now, if the money and the volunteer support and the municipal support and the mysterious currents that propel 16-year-olds can all be persuaded to flow in the proper direction, all Princeton's teen-agers, whatever their other needs, will at least have their "place to go."

"I WANNA HOLD YOUR HAND": Beatlemania has invaded Princeton. The Beatles were the runaway sensation of the Ed Sullivan Show produced by members of Mrs. Rosemary Hausdoerffer's fifth-grade class at Community Park School. Considering they had only two days to practice, it was a highly-polished, professional production. Later, the Beatles toured other classrooms. Impersonating their real-life counterparts are, from left: John Petrone, Joseph Moffo, Mark Jeffries and Edward Vernon on the drums. For their opinions of The Beatles, see "Question of the Week." TWO BROTHERS DROWN

Lake Carnegie Ice Breaks. Two young Princeton boys drowned on Tuesday afternoon when they tried to cross Lake Carnegie on the ice. The ice broke as they neared the shore of the abandoned towpath which separates the lake from the old Delaware and Raritan canal.

Erie Rothaus, 8, and his brother, Michael, 6, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar S. Rothaus, 135 Leabrook Lane, had accompanied their mother on a visit to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Baum, 386 Riverside Drive. While Mrs. Rothaus and Mrs. Baum were talking, the two boys went outside with the Baums' 5-year-old son, Eric.

The Rothaus brothers started out on the ice, but the Baum youngster remained on shore. As the two were walking across the ice, Mrs. Baum saw them from a window, according to police, and ran to warn them.

It was too late. The ice had broken under them, and they had plunged into the water.

Older Boy Found. Mrs. Baum rushed out to the ice to the spot where it had broken. She, too, went through the ice, but managed to grab the older Rothaus boy.

An alarm was telephoned to the Princeton station of the State Police at 2:27 p.m. It was answered by two troopers, James Arena, 23, of Trenton, and Raymond Smith, 33, of South River.

Arena and Smith drove to the scene, swam across the canal, crossed the towpath, and broke through the ice to reach Mrs. Baum and Eric Rothaus. They immediately began attempts to resuscitate Erie.

Taken To Hospital. The troopers brought the two to shore, but were unable to locate the younger brother. They were taken to Princeton Hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, where young Erie was pronounced dead at 3:45 p.m. after all efforts to revive him had failed.

Mrs. Baum, suffering from shock and exposure, was admitted to the hospital. Her condition was reported on Tuesday night as satisfactory. The two troopers were treated for exposure and released.

At 5:18 p.m. Michael's body was found by members of the First Aid and Rescue Squad who had been among the numerous police and rescue squads units searching the lake.

The boys' father is a mathematician with the Institute for Defense Analyses at the University, as is Dr. Baum. Eric was in the third grade at the Littlebrook School, and his brother, Michael was in the first grade there. In addition to their parents, they are survived by a five-year-old sister, Carla.

PARKING PLANS REVISED

For Borough Streets. A number of new parking restrictions for Borough Streets have been recommended to the mayor and borough council by the traffic safety committee, the borough engineer's office and the police department. Copies of the proposed changes are available at the borough administrator's office, and an informal public discussion of the plans is scheduled for March 4 at 8 p.m. with members of council at Borough Hall.

The revised regulations have been under discussion since May of last year. Most of the suggested changes have been recommended because of the narrowness of certain streets and the amount of traffic on them.

One of the proposed restrictions would prohibit parking, stopping or standing on the lower part of Nassau Street, on the north side from Scott Lane to Harrison Street. At present the restriction is no parking on that side. The present meters on the south side of Nassau between Scott and Harrison will remain unchanged.

On Mercer Street no parking is proposed for the east side from Library Place extended to the Borough line. The change is suggested because of the amount of traffic using Mercer, the narrowness of the street and to improve uniformity of parking regulations on it.

North Side of Stockton. It is also recommended that no parking be allowed on the north side of Stockton Street from Hibben Road to the Borough line both because Stockton is a heavily travelled State highway and for the sake of uniformity.

On Moore Street the recommendation is for no parking on the east side from Hamilton Avenue to Hawthorne to conform with remainder of the street and for two-hour parking on the west side of Moore from Park Place to Wiggins for the same reason.

Parking on Vandeventer Avenue would stay as is on the west side, but there would be no parking allowed on the east side. And in order to establish uniformity for a parallel main artery through the Borough, it is proposed that no parking would be allowed on the north sides of Jackson and Wiggins Streets and Hamilton Avenues.

Two changes are proposed for Witherspoon Street. Because of the heavy traffic and the fact that it is considered a critical emergency intersection as an approach to the hospital, it would be subject to a no-parking restriction from Clay Street to the Burough line. Parking on the west side of Witherspoon from Green to Clay would be restricted to a two-hour limit.

Other recommended restrictions and the leading reasons

Aiken Avenue: no parking on the north side (from Murray Place to its terminus); narrowness of street.

Cedar Lane: no parking on both sides for 50 feet from the Nassau Street intersection, to provide proper visibility.

Clay Street; no parking on the north side; congested area

Evelyn Place: no parking on the east side and around circle; narrowness of street.

Ewing Street: no parking on west and south side from Franklin Avenue to Harrison Street North; narrowness of street and apartment traffic.

Franklin Avenue: no parking on the north side side from Moore Street to Harris Road, narrow street, heavily travelled, used by school and emergency vehicles.

Greenview Avenue: one-way traffic (requested by residents) from south to north; no parking on west and south sides to facilitate movement of proposed one-way traffic.

Harrison Street (South): no parking on east side from Sergeant Street to Borough line; narrowness, proximity to play areas.

Harrison Street North: no parking on east side from 225 feet north of Nassau to Borough line; heavy traffic, extensive use of Hook and Ladder firehouse for rummage sales, public auctions, other public functions.

Hodge Road: no parking on the north side; narrow street, heavy traffic.

Houghton Road: no parking during school hours on north side, need for school bus parking.

Humbert Street: one-way traffic from south to north (requested by residents); no parking on east side; narrowness of street.

Linden Lane: no parking on east side from Hamilton Avenue to Borough line; narrowness and to conform with other portions of Linden.

Markham Road: no parking on west side from Nassau to Patton Avenue; narrowness of street.

Park Place: no parking on south side in front of parking yard, to maintain proper visibility.

Patton Avenue: no parking on north side; narrow street, to relieve congestion during University activities.

Pelham Street: no parking on north side from Harrison to Wilton Street; narrow street.

Sergeant Street: no parking on north side from Harrison to Wilton; narrow street.

Springdale Road: no parking on east side; on request of residents.

Spruce Street: no parking on north side; heavily congested area.

Walnut Lane: no parking on east side from Houghton Road to Franklin Avenue during school to accommodate buses.

Wilton Street: no parking on west side from Nassau to Patton Avenue; narrow street.

Princeton pallor!

Princeton pallor was enhanced by Wednesday's snowstorm, the fifth to coat the countryside with white since winter began.

Temperatures slightly above normal will make the task of removal a bit easier, the Man said. Readings will average a few degrees above 34 (normal for late February), with rain a possibility over the weekend.

ACCIDENT REPORT

Three in the Township. The Stony Brook Bridge on Mercer Road, a Public Service pole, a tank truck and icy roads were involved in three separate accidents last week in Princeton Township. Two occurred early Sunday morning within an hour of each other.

At 1.10 a.m. Sunday, Athanese F. Parsons, 35, of Somerville, driving east on Mercer Road, skidded into the westbound lane as he was crossing Stony Brook Bridge and crashed head-on into Richard Tomenchok of Trenton.

Neither man was injured but both cars, their entire front ends damaged, were towed away. Police made no charges. An idea of the prevailing weather at the time can be gained from the list of conditions checked on the accident report: cloudy, dark, raining, wet, slippery and snow.

An hour later, at 2:11, in the opposite end of the Township, Pauro DeJesus, 33, 115

News Of The THEATRES

CURTAIN!

"Othello" on Saturday. As every Princeton theatre-goer must surely know by now, McCarter's five-play Shakespeare series will have its gala opening this Saturday at 8:30 with "Othello."

An onstage reception will follow the final curtain, and will give subscribers a chance to meet one another and the McCarter staff, and to become acquainted with the new Festival Stage, designed especially for this quadricentennial celebration by Hugh Hardy.

Then next Friday, McCarter will introduce into its repertory "Romeo and Juliet," which has been warming up with school matinee audiences for some weeks now. "Romeo" will be given next Saturday, also.

Shakespeare's romantic tragedy will introduce to Princeton audiences young Gerald Peters, who was chosen to play Romeo in the true Cinderella tradition of the theatre. An off-stage member of McCarter's staff last fall (an orange-juice vendor, in fact) Mr. Peters was selected by director Arthur Lithgow after extensive auditions of other actors.

Angela D'Ambrosia will appear as Juliet, Ruby Holbrook will play the Nurse, Tom Barbour will be Capulet and David Tress, Montague.

For "Othello," Director William Francisco has Robert Blackburn, and for Desdemona, Miss D'Ambrosia. Stratton Walling will be Iago, Michael Miller, wil be Roderigo, Miss Holbrook will be Emilia and Mr. Barbour, Brabantio.

BALLET COMING

With Two Programs. The 80 members of the San Francisco Ballet who will appear in Princeton next Monday will find at McCarter Theatre one of the largest and newest dance stages in the eastern United States.

McCarter will find, in its turn, the greatest number of dancers it has ever had, plus an orchestra of 30, which is said to be the largest orchestra of any touring dance company.

The San Franciscans will present two completely different programs — one at 3.30 designed with children in mind, and another at 8:30 for adults. Both will feature the choreography of Lew Christensen, general director and principal choreographer for the San Francisco company.

Composers represented in the six different ballets range from Boccerini ("Sinfonia") to Prokofiev ("Fantasma") to Ernest Krenek, whose electronic music will support "Jest of Cards."

The San Francisco Ballet has been chosen by the Ford Foundation as one of seven regional recipients of major grants, in a continuing program of Foundation support to ballet America.

As a State Department "representative," the ballet has traveled to the Near and Far East, Latin America and to Africa.

BALLADEER TO SING

With Folk Festival. Jean Redpath is a lovely young Scottish balladeer who is, in the words of Robert Shelton of the New York Times, "one of the most confoundingly unappreciated talents in Western folk music."

Princeton folk afficionados will have a chance to judge for themselves when Miss Redpath makes her first appearance in town on Saturday, March 7. She will be on the program of the Spring Folk Festival, scheduled for 2:30 in Dillon Gym.

The Festival, sponsored by McCarter Theatre and the University's Junior Prom Committee, will also feature the Tarriers (a folk trio), Rambling Jack Elliott and the gospel songs of Back Home Choir of 75 voices from the Greater Harvest Baptist Church, Newark.

Miss Redpath arrived in the United States from Scotland in 1961 with only $11 and a natural, untrained voice. In the brief succeeding years, she has had a quick series of successes leading up to Mr. Shelton of the New York Times, and now — Princeton.

Tickets are on sale at the McCarter box-office and the Princeton University store.

HANDS UP!

Westerns at McCarter. "Stagecoach" and "The Great Train Robbery" will share the double bill at McCarter next Tuesday as the classic film series continues its exploration of the American west. The lights will dim at 8 p.m.

Produced in 1939, "Stagecoach" was the first collaboration of director John Ford and a new, unknown actor named John Wayne. The film tells the story of nine people who are traveling by stage across hostile Apache territory. Andy Devine, Thomas Mitchell and John Carradine are also featured. "Stagecoach" won the 1939 Academy Award as the best picture of the year.

motion picture to tell a story. It was made in 1903 with G. M. Anderson ("Bronco Billy"), who made a small stir by firing his gun directly into the face of the audience.

THE WOLF CAN'T WIN

In "Red Riding Hood," A musical version of Red Riding Hood and the wolf will appear at the McCarter on Tuesday, March 3, as the third play in the Children's Entertainment Series. Curtain rises at 3:30.

The score by Seymour Barab has been termed a musical comedy, a comic opera and a "tiny opera" with recitative. It features something for everybody—mammas to moppets—and includes some spectacular chase scenes. The music is full of fun and harmony, and the wolf leaves nobody scared.

Reservations may be made by telephone between 1 and 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, Mrs. Wayne V. O'Neil of 115 Lafayette Road (921-6011) is ticket chairman. The Borough Elementary PTA is sponsor of the series.

DOUBLE BILL PLANNED

By Theatre Intime. Two Edward Albee dramas will be presented by the Theatre Intime for three successive weekends, beginning this Thursday, at Murray Theatre.

"The Zoo Story" and "The American Dream" are under the direction of Intime president George Blanchard. Stephen Hall is producer.

First produced in 1958, "The Zoo Story" is a brief, two-character play in which one of the characters tricks an inoffensive stranger. The theme of hate is masked by a contorted face called love. Dan Deitch and Steve Kaplan star.

"The American Dream," is a surrealistic presentation of life in an American family. Ptayers include Steve Wilson, Ed Townley, Carole Schwartz, Sally Lewis and Shirley Kaufman.

Curtain rises at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 for the public and $1 for students. Student art will be on display in the lobby, and coffee will be offered during intermission.

BARD ON THE BOARDS

At Westminster Playhouse. Readings from Shakespeare will be presented by Cecilia Drewry at 11 a.m. Monday in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College.

Mrs. Drewry, who lives at 2 Glenview Road, has had an extensive career in one-woman shows, is a member of the drama department at Douglass College. The recital concludes the college's Cultural Heritage series. Though the program is designed for the student body, the public is welcome without charge.

COMMUTERS TO COMPETE

In Theatre League Trials. The Commuters will enter their production of Edward Albee's "The American Dream" in the March competition of the New Jersey Theatre League.

"Dream" is now in rehearsal, along with Albee's "The Death of Bessie Smith." Both one-acters will be presented this Saturday and again on the 29th at South Brunswick High School. Curtain rises at 8:30 p.m.

The Theatre League competition will be held at Cranford High School; finalists will compete at the McCarter later this spring. The cast of the Commuters' entry includes Betty Dickson, Howard Auerback, Mildred Wasserman, Arlyne De Sena and Tom Bahring.

ON THE ROAD

McCarter to Travel. "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Taming of the Shrew" in their McCarter productions will be given by the North Park Theatre of Beverly, Mass., in two weeks of student matinees starting May 11.

The North Shore Community Arts Foundation, Inc., will offer the two plays at nominal cost to secondary school students in the New England area. The Beverly performances will be the first "out-of-town" engagement for a regular production of the McCarter Professional Repertory Company.

GARDEN

The Misadventures of Merlin Jones (through Friday), is a new Disney comedy, starring Tommy Kirk as a madcap science student. It's a panic. So says our nine-year-old son, who found our negative reaction to "Son of Flubber" incomprehensible.

Lilies of the Field. (Saturday through Tuesday) is a heart-warming ingratiating blend of humor, sentiment and touching emotion. Filmed in the unusually short time of two weeks, it sets as its modest goal the depiction of a character whom one admires as a human being not sympathizes with solely because he is a Negro.

Sidney Poitier, surely one of the most accomplished actors now playing (as anyone who saw "Raisin in the Sun" knows), takes the part of a delightful and cheerful and long-suffering ex-GI who stops off in Arizona to lend a hand to a group of immigrant nuns from Germany in building their "schapel." James Poe's affectionate and sensitive script and the fine esprit of the cast make for an amusing yet moving story.

All of the performances have an unusually "right" feeling about them; Poitier is magnificent throughout and Lilia Skala as the Mother Superior does an exceptional job. "Lilies of the Field" is an unusual and unusually fine movie.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

Love With The Proper Stranger (now showing) addresses itself to an exposition of pre-marital pregnancy. For that reason it's not exactly the kind of movie you'd take a cub

Shakespeare Is "In"

Eight more school matinees have been added to the McCarter schedule, and by the time the Shakespeare Festival draws to a close, more than 50,000 school children (many of them repeats, of course), will have trooped in and out of McCarter.

In fact, the demand is so great that McCarter has extended its season from April 19 to April 26. Monte Frierson, general manager of McCarter, said this week that the 40 matinees originally scheduled, are already 80 percent sold out, and two of the plays are completely sold.

"This means that the McCarter program ranks second only to the American Shakespeare Festival in Stratford, Connecticut, in terms of total student admissions," Mr. Frierson said.

IT'S NEW To Us

IT'S LIBERTY TIME

Lawn. Linen. We took a delightful 25-mile jaunt into the countryside the other afternoon and ended up at Golden Eagle Fabrics in the charming little Bucks County shopping center called Peddler's Village, five miles south of New Hope on Route 202.

We found, when we arrived, one of the longest inventories of Liberty prints this side of London itself, and if you are a fan of these feminine florals, we suggest by all means, a visit to Golden Eagle.

On one shelf, for example, are more than 80 different bolts (eighty!) of Liberty lawn prints, most of them florals, but a few paisleys, too. And on the shelf below, is a fresh, spring-garden collection of light-weight linens, new to the Liberty family.

Here, in summer-weight print, are such felicities as blue periwinkles and their own green leaves; an all-over print of rich copen or bright carnation pink flowers; greys and yellows in shy combination — probably more than two dozen to choose from, if you have a counter with you.

WELCOME TO GOLDEN EAGLE! Lizanne Rome smiles a welcome from the door of the Peddler's Village fabric shop. The Village, a country-barn style shopping area, is located 5 miles south of New Hope on Route 202. Alfred Stapf, the Golden Eagle's proprietor, has had a life-time of experience in textiles. (Staff Photo)

Golden Eagle also has its very own specialty: a Bucks County print, hand-screened and exclusive with this shop. Against white, shall we say, or beige (there are half a dozen color combinations), you'll find Knecht's bridge, the canal and its barges, even the courthouse.

The print, particularly effective in sharp black silhouette against white, has been made into neckties and aprons, too. It's a rayon-cotton, drip-dry.

Back to linens for a moment, we found some from Ireland, including a color called "Bengad" (deep, steel navy,) and other, more self-explanatory called "Mimosa." Golden Eagle puts a white with navy and red dots next to a solid red bolt, and a white with black cocoa dots next to a solid black or cocoa bolt, just to jog your coutouriere's imagination.

For warm weather ahead, there's a cotton stripe in shaggy horizontals of blues and purples, or golds and browns. For the young, there's a white cotton imprinted with the gayest 10-inch teen-age girls you ever saw, dressed variously in sailing clothes of bright and red and navy. A solid red and a solid navy match exactly.

The shaggy outline appears again in a coin dot — red, blue, red, — alternating in starchy rows against white. You can see that one coming a mile away! (Black and cafe on white, also)

The shop's own colophon has been woven into a tapestry fabric designed for decorations and christened, "United We Stand." It displays an eagle in bronze-gold, claret red or steel blue against a natural background.

On the accessory side, you'll find at Golden Eagle a sprightly collection of enameled jewelry done in the Pennsylvania Dutch style. Colors are primary, sharp and clear. There are cuff-links, tie-tacks, a charm bracelet, a delightful little ring, and pendants in various sizes, each one with the "hex" circle. Ever a demi-tasse spoon!

THE FORMS OF SPRING

At Edith's. We took the plunge the other day and went to Edith's on Chambers Street to look things over. We found, as we suspected we would, one of those low bras that have turned haut couture to bas couture.

Bali has one with a low front, a low back, side straps that go low on the shoulder, and just enough lace to provide a little body. There is also a model with a push-up foam insert. That's the one you may have seen in "Time" magazine. White or black.

Edith herself shudders slightly at all this, and does not quite approve, but what is one to do? You've got to admire the engineering daring, that's all we can say.

Formfit makes, for some

Of Stress and Strain

That classic American, the Mad Scientist, seems to have been turned loose in Edith's these days.

The amount of engineering and architectural knowledge necessary to design the new bras, girdles and gowns we saw at Edith's this week, is awesome, truly awesome. With some of these garments, even the wearer has to have a series of lessons before she knows which side is which, what ribbon goes where, and should this strap really lie just so on the shoulder?

And then, the chemists! Antron, which you met last fall in turtlenecks, is now in gowns. It's a kind of nylon, and seems to make a sheerer tricot. And "stretch" is incorporated into the most unlikely places, where you'd never think a rubberized thread could go.

scout to. Or a boy scout, for that matter.

Natalie Wood plays the part of the gravid saleschick who leaves the ribbon counter at Macy's for one ill-timed fling with Steve McQueen, itinerant jazzbum, at a summer resort.

After Natalie discovers her indelicate situation, she sets out to find Papa Steve. This she does, and the result, just to make everything neat and tidy,, is marriage.

In spite of the theme and the inept caperings of old Stevie, the picture is fairly diverting. We'd give it a mark somewhere between B minus and C-Plus.

THE NEW STRAND

Chaplin Carnival. The New Strand, in Lambertville, will show 17 of the early films made by Charlie Chaplin on the next five consecutive Sundays. They cover a period from 1914 and Chaplin's first film for Mack Sennett to 1923 and "The Pilgrim," least known of Chaplin's features.

"The Pilgrim" will be shown this Sunday along with two of Chaplin's famous shorts. A complete schedule of the Chaplin series, plus the balance of the March bookings (including "David and Lisa," "Sundays and Cybele" and "West Side Story") will be mailed upon request to The New Strand, Box 91, Lambertville.

reason, a new girdle which is contoured in the back just the way a brassiere is contoured in the front. Comfort?

Many women will welcome a new all-in-one with stretch strap, low back and no zipper anywhere. It has a lace and satin bra and front panel.

Bali has a stretch bra with a stretch strap you can adjust. White nylon and lycra. A regular stretch bra, with standard stretch strap you can adjust. White nylon and lycra. A regular stretch bra, with standard stretch strap, is white, blue, beige, black.

MOTHER-TO-BE MEETS FATHER-TO-BE: Natalie Wood and Steve McQueen discuss the future of their folly in "Love with The Proper Stranger," at the Prince and the Playhouse.

Stretch lace, if you please, makes the top of a new slip. The slip itself is available in white taffeta, nylon, or cotton and dacron. The d, and c, is a tailored slip, and you'd never guess the stretchability of that plain top until — you stretch it yourself.

One of the loveliest slips of the spring is a georgette print, an all-over delight of wild rose blossoms. (But did you see the chemise? Shades of Clara Bow. It's white, with French lace and scalloped hemline.)

The summer's favorite gown will be Edith's white dacron and cotton with bands of eyelet trim, fashioned in two panels, front and back, connected only briefly at the shoulder. By maneuvering the blue ribbon, Grecian fashion, you make a demure wrap-around which is modest in appearance but allows the breezes through.

Nothing demure about Rogers Grecian contribution. This is an over-gown of tricot, slit all the way to the Empire waist on each side. You wear it over a slim, full-length gown with its own Empire waist, marked off by narrow bands. At present, Edith has a white over-gown piped with coffee, and a kelly green gown piped with white, but the partners of each will be along presently.

A V-neckline which dives low and long mocks the demureness of a long white dotted Swiss gown and its Pink ribbon insertion. You will admire the skill that combines femininity with the tailored look in a white peignoir ensemble with satin piping and puff sleeves.

Antron nylon makes a brief printed shift gown, in blue or green watercolor, suspended from spaghetti straps.

For travelers, Edith says "bon boyage" with a white tricot robe, black dotted, and overprinted with roses. A deep rose chiffon lining gives a flip to the sash.

Person To Person

Coty S. Kammler

We read an article on the differences in the early lives of various leaders in foreign revolutions as compared to the leaders of the American Revolution. Much false information was compiled on Hitler, Stalin, and Mussolini aftre they became dictators and it is now difficult to separate truth from fiction, but the very fact that the fictionalization of their lives was necessary tells a story in itself. However, their early lives foreshadowed the kind of men they became, and it is no wonder they wanted as little light as possible thrown on the truth. On the other hand, with our freedom of the press it is impossible to hide the truth, and the early lives of the important leaders of our Revolution gave us wonderful examples to follow. George Washington would never have become the father of our country if it had not been for the reputation he established in his teens. Long before he was 21 he was a person with considerable savings and known for ethics which gained for him the esteem and confidence of the leading men in the Colony of Virginia. That was his springboard to success and foreshadowed the nature of the years ahead for himself and this great country. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

It's New To Us

Here's a white pique jumper with what looks like a red gingham shirt, but it's really a one-piece breakfast coat. Silk-like cotton print, a riotous field of poppies and violets, wraps with intricate layering, into a peignoir held together by an olive velvet ribbon.

GENDER: FEMININE

Pipes for Ladies. "It's the most divine little briar, only five inches long, and it's got this absolutely wonderful draw . . ."

Yes, it's true. Pipes for ladies are now in Princeton. In Bamberger's to be specific, and right there in the men's smoking department, too, not tucked off in cosmetics or jewelry or somewhere.

Bamberger's collection starts at $2 and goes up to $7, so you can assemble quite a wardrobe. As any man will tell you, one pipe is nowhere near enough.

Well, you begin with those little briars, in any one of several bowl shapes, and you smoke them in the daytime—marketing, car-pooling and the like.

For afternoon, or a day in town, you might choose—the pigskin pipe, or perhaps the tortoise-shell with its slender cylindrical bowl, lined with meerschaum.

For absolutely white-tie, you would have trouble deciding between the one that's crusted with rhinestones, and the terribly simple one that's all pure white. Lined, again, with meerschaum.

What's next? Pipe cleaners to match your ensemble, without a doubt.

Alexander Street, skidded on Princeton-Kingston Road near the intersection of Riverside Drive. His car swerved across the opposite lane and into a Public Service pole.

Police issued no summonses to Mr. DeJesus, who received a slight cut on his nose. His extensively damaged car was towed away.

1 in 100. Ninety-nine times out of 100 when a driver becomes tired of following a slow truck and passes anyway, he makes it. James C. Kovacs, 23, of New Brunswick, is that one-in-a-hundred who didn't.

Mr. Kovacs, who was driving on Route 206 last week during a snowstorm, told police this story. He became impatient from following a slow-moving tank truck and attempted to pass near Hillside Avenue. In the process, he lost control of his car and it went off the road and down an embankment, striking several trees on the way.

The right side of Mr. Kovacs' 1964 sedan was damaged. In addition, his impatience earned him a summons for driving too fast for conditions. He was not injured.

LaPLACA HAS NEW PLAN For Spruce Street Land. The property owned by Charles LaPlaca between Harrison and Spruce Streets made news twice this week.

The latest development is Mr. LaPlaca's application to the Borough Zoning Board for permission to build 50 apartments on Lot 17. This parcel of land includes the old quarry, and lies south of the piece of LaPlaca property that the Housing Authority wants for its housing-for-the-elderly project.

Apartments are prohibited in this area. Zoning calls for one and two-family houses only. In his application, Mr. LaPlaca says he proposes to show the zoning board that apartments constitute the best possible use for the land.

He has a strong argument, because the Zoning Board has already approved the Housing Authority's request to build precisely the same number of apartments right next door, on Mr. LaPlaca's Lot 16.

However, because of the quarry, Mr. LaPlaca would have to squeeze his 50 units into about half the space that the Housing Authority needs. He could build about eight to ten two-family houses on the three-acre plot without the need for a variance, according to the Borough engineering department.

The Zoning Board will consider the application at its regular meeting next Tuesday at 8 in the Engineering Building.

Now, we move north to the contentious Lot 17, where Mr. LaPlaca wants to build 14 two-family houses and the Borough Housing Authority wants to build 50 apartments for the elderly.

Mr. LaPlaca will have to apply all over again to the Planning Board for approval on these 14 units because Borough attorney Gordon Griffin has ruled that the LaPlaca attorneys allowed only four days' public hearing notice, instead of the required five, to neighboring property owners.

The board held a special meeting Thursday night to announce this ruling, but Mr. LaPlaca did not come, and neither did his attorneys. If they had appeared, they could have asked the Board for an extension of time.

HILLSIDE AT LAST Sewer Bid Let. The vexing sewerage problems of Hillside Avenue, which have plagued Township Committee for at least five years, and Hillside residents for even longer, drew closer to solution Monday night when Committee chose a contractor and announced that he would begin work in 30 days.

The low bidder is H. H. Rouse, Inc., of Browns Mills, with $61,665.45. The engineer's estimate had been $69,486. The nine bids ranged so widely that the top bidder, George L. Smith, was well over twice as much as Rouse's successful low bid. The Smith concern submitted an estimate of $140,650 for the job.

Present at Monday's meeting was A. J. Cevera, 5 Hillside Avenue, who has been actively concerned with the neighborhood's problems for many years.

"How do you feel now, Mr. Cevera?" asked Committeeman Walter B. Foster Jr. with a smile.

Mr. Cevera smiled back. "I'm ready," he said.

A Year's Work. Mayor William Wilson announced that Committee had prepared an "annual agenda" of 51 items "which we hope to do something about this year," and he said that Committeemen planned to begin work on them, in executive session, that very night.

Acting on a recommendation from the Traffic Safety Committee, Mayor Wilson and his fellow Committeemen asked attorney Gordon Griffin to prepare an ordinance restricting parking on Henry Avenue.

Most of the parked cars there now belong to employees and patients of the Medical Arts building, who could just as well park in the hospital lot on Franklin, the traffic committee says.

The ordinance will ban parking on the south side of Henry from Witherspoon to Jefferson, and will restrict parking on the north side to two-hour periods between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Parking on this north side will be banned altogether between 2 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Commission Recommended. Township and Borough citizens who have been working together on recreation have recommended a Joint Recreation Commission for both municipalities. Melvin Gottlieb, chairman of the Township Recreation Commission, wrote to Committee announcing the decision, and informing Committee members that the Recreation Commission would resign as soon as the new joint group is appointed.

"An excellent achievement, that a Joint Commission has emerged from Borough-Township discussion," commented John O. Green.

A letter from Mrs. Lyman Spitzer, 659 Lake Drive, reminded Committee of the Community Gardens presentation last spring, and urged that the Township take some action.

Mayor Wilson referred to the Recreation Director whose salary has been budgeted by both municipalities: "We can appoint a Commission, find a man, and get going," he said.

The garbage disposal contract for the five Township districts was awarded to Princeton Disposal for $8,395. Last year's cost was $9,500.

Princeton Disposal was granted the bid with Committeeman Carl C. Schafer Jr. abstaining. Mr. Schafer would have liked to see Jule Huntley get the bid because he is a Township resident, but Mr. Griffin pointed out that the law specifies the "lowest responsible bidder."

Committee made three appointments: Carl Breuer to the Open Space Committee, replacing Thomas Cook who will serve as Open Space counsel; John Henderson to the Board of Health and Mrs. Jetta Hall to the post of assistant director of welfare.

Because so many Committeemen will be out of town on March 2, the next Township Committee meeting will be held on Thursday, March 5.

EGYPT IS NEXT

In Discussion Series. Topic of the third "Great Decisions" program is "Egypt and the Middle East — What Prospects for Stability?" T. Cuyler Young, Princeton professor of Persian language and history, will be moderator of the panel discussion to be held at the YMCA at 8 p.m. on Monday.

Members of the panel will include Manfred Halpern, associate professor of politics at the University, and Raymond H. Close, foreign service officer on leave from the State Department for a year's study here. Mr. Close, a previous resident of Princeton and a member of the Class of 1951 at the University, has recently returned from a three-year tour of duty in Egypt.

The panel meeting will be followed by an informal discussion in the Y lounge. The program will be broadcast over WHWH, and rebroadcast over

WRFM, New York, at a later date.

The "Great Decisions" series is being established in Princeton by John Matthews, Princeton resident and staff member of the Foreign Policy Association. The association sponsors the series annually throughout the country.

MEETING MONDAY

Of Hospital Corporation. The 44th annual report by Princeton Hospital to the community will be made on Monday in the high school auditorium at the yearly meeting of the Hospital Corporation. The meeting will start at 8 p.m.

Five trustees are to be elected, and there will be reports from the president of the board, the hospital administrator and other officers. There will be no contest for the five vacancies on the board since nominations closed on February 8 with no nominees other than those selected by the nominating committee.

Nominated for re-election are Dr. Robert S. Garber and Leslie L. Vivian Jr. For the other three vacancies the committee has nominated James Carey, Samuel Frothingham and Frank E. Taplin.

Retiring from the board are George R. Griffing, Bernard Kilgore and Prof. Richard A. Lester. Mr. Griffing has served for 12 years, Mr. Kilgore for nine and Mr. Lester for three.

Service awards honoring a total of 240 years of service to patients by employees will also be presented at the meeting. Receiving a 30-year award will be Mrs. Helen G. Carter, director of the business office, and a 15-year award will be made to Mrs. Grace C. Fry, social service director.

Ten-year awards will be presented to seven hospital employees, and five-year awards will be made to 25.

To Give Away $6,592

The Jaycees will hand out checks totaling $6,592 to four Princeton organizations this Thursday at the YMCA. The money is part of the gate receipts from last fall's Jaycee Football Classic in Palmer Stadium. The donations and the recipients:

$1,200 — YMCA for Volkswagen bus for Ranger Camp.

$1,160 — Princeton Hospital for equipment.

$1,000 — Princeton Study Center.

$2,632 — Scholarships for Princeton area young people, to be administered by the Youth Employment Service.

$600 — Youth Employment Service, for operating expenses.

The Jaycees also announced that John Lasley will be executive director for the 1964 Football Classic on September 12. He is the first Princeton resident to be chosen for the top job in the charity event.

BABY INJURED IN CRASH

Mother Was Driving. A two-months-old baby was slightly injured in an auto accident Tuesday afternoon when the car being driven by her mother failed to make a turn on the Plainsboro Road. The infant, Cheryl Marie Goeke, was admitted to Princeton Hospital for observation after suffering minor contusions.

According to State Police, who investigated, the car was being driven by Mrs. Jeannie H. Goeke, 18, of 16 Van Kirk Drive in Princeton. Also a passenger in the car at the time was Nellie Sutton, 18, of 876 Brunswick Pike, Princeton.

Mrs. Goeke and Miss Sutton were reportedly uninjured. Mrs. Gocke was issued a summons by Trooper Connolly for careless driving.

ARE YOU A PARENT?

Teens? Toddlers? Parents of teen-agers or toddlers are invited to participate in a series of round-table discussions sponsored by the Family Service Agency of Princeton

The agency will provide the discussion leaders, and will hold the sessions wherever the parents decide. Church associations, womens' clubs, fraternal organizations or similar groups may have the discussions at their own headquarters if they wish, or at the Family Service Agency rooms in Dorothea House.

The time is also flexible, and Family Service is willing to schedule evening or Saturday morning gatherings if a given group wants it that way. The groups will be organized to consider either teens or toddlers, not both.

The basic plan is for once-a-week meetings of one and one-half hours each for six to eight weeks The fee will be $7 for one parent, $10 for both.

Teen-age discussion seminars have already proved highly successful. Family Service has planned these "workshops" to help parents understand more about the ways in which children develop. Frequently, parents are reassured when they exchange experiences with other parents, and learn that their own children are not so different after all, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Trimble, Family Service Agency director.

To guide the discussion, Family Service will provide trained, professional leaders who come from outside the Agency's own staff. Full information may be obtained by calling the Agency at 924-2098.

MONTGOMERY REGISTERS

For Kindergarten. Children who expect to attend kindergarten in Montgomery Township next fall should register Friday, February 28, at the elementary school. They must be five years old on or before October 15.

Required at the time of registration are birth certificate and proof of inoculation against diptheria, smallpox and polio.

THREE LOSE LICENSES

Under Speed, Point Laws. Three Princeton area drivers have had their licenses suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Charles L. Perrine, 21, Cranbury, surrendered his license for two months, and Albert H. Hunker Jr., 20, also of Cranbury, lost his for one month on points. The license of David D. Blackwell, 91 Oak Street, Pennington, was suspended 30 days for speeding.

DR. BRISTOL TO SPEAK

At Woman's Club Meeting. Dr. Lee H. Bristol Jr., president of Westminster Choir College, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Woman's Club of Princeton to be held Thursday at 1:30 at the Shrine Club.

Dr. Bristol, who has worn many hats in his career, including those of business executive, writer, composer, civic and religious leader, will discuss the college which he heads.

IS LATIN DEAD?

92 Leaders Say "No!". Latin students at Princeton High School have put into booklet form cheering words received from 92 prominent men and women in all walks of life.

The booklet reprints letters endorsing Latin study, beginning with President Johnson and ending with pollster George Gallup. Ranging through the pages are commentaries from the Archbishop of Canterbury, Mary Martin, Chet Huntley, Roy Wilkins.

PUBLIC LIBRARY PLANNED

To Plainsboro. Plainsboro is in the process of establishing a free library. A fee of $1 will entitle members to borrow books from the library, which will be located in the Town Hall.

Officers and trustees are Mrs. Donald Stitt, president; Mrs. Chester Mowery, vice-president; Mrs. Patrick Butler, secretary; Calvin Ruedemann, treasurer; Mrs. Harold Britton and Mrs. Henry Jeffers III.

Used books in good condition which may be bought or donated are needed. Those having books should call Mrs. Clarice Knight at 799-0717, Mrs. Henry Jeffers Jr. at 799-0033 or Mrs. Lee Clark at 799-0376.

JUDGE TO LECTURE

On Negro Rights. Judge Thurgood Marshall of the U S Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, will discuss the Negro's constitutional rights in the three-part Stafford Little Lecture series at Princeton University.

Judge Marshall will speak at 8 p.m. this Wednesday, Thursday and next Tuesday, February 25, in 10 McCosh Hall. The public is welcome.

The University awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree on Judge Marshall last year, citing him as "one of the outstanding civil rights lawyers of our country."

A high honors graduate of Lincoln University and Howard University Law School, Judge Marshall was special counsel to the NAACP from 1938 until 1961. He received his court appointment the following year.

RETURNED: 104 STRAYS

Rescue League Meets. "It was the busiest year in all my five years with the League," said Mrs. A. C. Graves, executive secretary of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League in her report to the 14th annual meeting of the League held last Wednesday.

Mrs. Graves reported 104 stray dogs and cats returned to their owners during the year, and adoptions arranged for 256 unclaimed and unwanted dogs and cats, including puppies and kittens.

Members of the League discussed the organization's plans to cooperate with Borough and Township on the construction of a joint municipal shelter. Joseph R. Nini, township administrator, is expected to report soon on estimates for the project.

The following were elected to serve the League in the coming year: Mrs. A. W. Stephens, president; Mrs. G. A. Cluett, first vice-president, Mrs. William A. French, second vice-president; Henry Martin, treasurer; Mrs. Hugh N. Boyd, secretary and Mesdames E. E. Campbell, J. F. Cross, William R. Dorman, John H. Meyer, Dessa M. Skinner and Donald Strachan, trustees.

NON-VIOLENCE IS TOPIC

Of Editor's Talk. The Fellowship of Reconciliation is sponsoring a public lecture by Dorothy Day, editor of "The Catholic Worker" at 8:15 p.m. next Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church.

Miss Day will discuss "The Folly of Non-violence," assessing the merits and limitations of non-violent protest as a social action tool. Founder of "The Catholic Worker, a Christian pacifist newspaper, in the 1930's, Miss Day is the author of such books as "Loaves and Fishes" and "The Long Loneliness."

FIVE ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Five Princeton residents were fined Monday by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr., four on traffic violations.

Mark J. Masterton, 18, 18 Madison Street, was fined $10 and had his license revoked 15 days for careless driving. He pleaded not guilty.

Timothy K. Donath, 40, 31 Herrontown Circle, was fined $20 for speeding, while $15 fines were levied against Charles H. Kepner, 47 Meadowbrook Drive, and Milton G. White, 124 Quaker Road. Mr. Kepner was charged with operating an unregistered vehicle; Mr. White for failing to set his hand brake.

In criminal court, Mrs. Mary Pierre, 42, 98 Spruce Street, was fined $15 as a disorderly person under a Borough Ordinance. In a second disorderly charge against Mrs. Pierre, this one under a state statute, Magistrate Tams waived the fine but ordered the defendant to pay $10 court costs.

74 NURSES TO GRADUATE

From Hospital School. Joint commencement exercises for the sixth and seventh classes of Princeton Hospital's School of Practical Nursing will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Westminster Choir School chapel. Thirty-four graduates will receive their diplomas.

The graduation address will be given by Kenneth Williamson, associate director of the American Hospital Association. The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will deliver the invocation and the benediction.

The students will be presented by Miss Jean A. Alito, assistant administrator of nursing services, and diplomas will be conferred by George W. Conover, president of the hospital's board of trustees. Music will be provided by the Westminster chapel choir under the direction of Robert Simpson, with John Tuttle as organist.

Graduates from the Princeton area include: Mrs. Latitia H. Drake and Patricia A. Vogt, of Princeton; Eileen M. Ludwig, and Diane K. Murphy, of Hopewell, and Mrs. Virginia B. Harvey, of Pennington. Twenty-six of the graduates will continue at Princeton at Princeton Hospital as members of the nursing staff.

MRS. MOTLEY TO SPEAK

At Byrd Dinner Dance. Mrs. Constance B. Motley, associate counsel for the NAACP legal defense and educational fund, will speak at the second annual Elizabeth Taylor Byrd Memorial Fund dinner dance.

Warren Nutt's band will furnish the music at the dinner dance, which will begin at 7 at the Nassau Inn on Saturday, February 29.

Mrs. Motley has worked on all the major school desegregation cases including the Universities of Alabama, Florida and Georgia. She appeared on behalf of James Meredith in Mississippi and New Orleans.

REPUBLICANS TO MEET

In Montgomery Township. The Montgomery Township Republican Club will hold its annual meeting and elect officers at 8 on Tuesday, February 25.

The club will meet at the First National Bank of Somerset County, Route 206, Belle Mead. The downstairs conference room is reached through the rear entrance of the bank.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED

By Blawenburg Troop. Boy Scout Troop 46 of Blawenburg observed its 30th anniversary last week with a covered dish supper in the Blawenburg Reformed Church educational building. Some 140 people attended.

Included in the evening's program was a talk on the various types of armor and helmets used by knights by an expert on the subject, Leonard Heinrich, and a magic show by Raymond Groendyke. John Van Zandt served as master of ceremonies.

A plaque was presented to Earle Van Fleet who had been instrumental in forming the troop. Also present was Norman Haight, the troop's first scoutmaster. Honors in a cake-cutting ceremony were shared by Clark Scully, a charter member, and by Jim Purdum of Blawenburg, the most recent member of the troop.

Today, the troop with 28 members is actively engaged in scouting activities under the leadership of Scoutmaster Everett May Jr. and Parvin Stryker Jr. and David Terhune, assistant scoutmasters. In July, the troop will spend a week at Camp Pahaquarra.

OPERA GROUP TO EXPAND

Plans Membership Drive. The Princeton Opera Association, now two years old, is starting a drive for additional members and support, according to officers of the organization. The stated purpose of the Association is to provide greater opportunities for hearing, singing and learning opera.

The group was started, according to a founder, not so that it would be a duplicate of any other local music organization, but to fill a need for an association devoted exclusively to opera. It held its first public concert a year ago.

Among the Princeton Opera Association's plans are public concerts based on opera scenes, school assembly programs about opera and benefits to provide scholarships for deserving young singers. It also hopes to provide opera "run-throughs" by which gifted amateurs and professionals will sight-read opera scores under the direction of experienced conductors.

The association reports that response from opera lovers and singers has been enthusiastic, including requests to stage full-scale productions which have come from neighboring communities. But it says that the association's plans are first to build a strong membership at the local level.

Members of the committee for the support of the association are: Dr. Lee H. Bristol Jr., Clare Burns, Stuart Duncan II, Mary Ecroyd, John Hite, Richard V. Lindabury, Mrs. Howard S. Mele, Francis F. Schley, and Mrs. E. Glen Wever.

HONOR ROLL LISTED

For Miss Fine's. On the honor roll for the first semester at Miss Fine's School are:

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

February 19, 1959. This was the day, five years ago, that they struck oil in the middle of Nassau Street, but nobody got rich because of it. In fact it cost money.

During a routine job of sealing manhole covers, workers smelled gasoline in front of South's Garage. They peered into an old manhole, 14 feet deep found nine inches of gas floating on top of eight feet of water.

The hole, according to Robert Clayton of South's was an abandoned fire cistern that dated back to the days before hydrants — at least 76 years old by then. It was so old that it didn't even exist on any Borough map.

By the next Monday, a total of 13 inches of gas had been pumped out of the troublesome pit, the cistern filled with 61 tons of sand and then permanently sealed. Standard Oil of New Jersey, from whose tanks the gasoline had flowed, picked up the lab, and that was the end of Princeton's costly oil well.

The Princeton Community Players were doing SRO business at their Alexander Street Playmill with Dylan Thomas's "Under Milk Wood." Two of the six performances were completely sold out and there was an average of only about 25 vacant seats for the remaining performances. Far more than a succes d'estime.

The worst fire to hit the town's business district in over a decade had roared through Shelton Motor Co. service garage the preceding Thursday in 1959. The flash fire, apparently started when a few drops of gasoline had fallen on an electric light bulb, destroyed nine cars, ruined much valuable equipment and left the building a shell. Fortunately, only one employee was injured, and he but slightly.

TEN YEARS AGO

February 18, 1954. The constantly-growing Educational Testing Service had burst its seams at its 20 Nassau Street location. Talk was that it might move into the home of A & P (at 172 Nassau Street, now the location of Davidson's). The A & P in 1954 was "reportedly" seeking a North Harrison Street location, where indeed it now is, in the Shopping Center. ETS, of course, has since picked up its tests and computors and gone out into the country on Rosedale Road.

The Hungarian Quartet had appeared in a concert at McCarter, but its fiddling was apparently not quite up to scratch. Said TOWN TOPICS' reviewer: "The coldness of the evening probably accounted for a certain stiffness of tone and some lapses of intonation."

An auto show at the "new" Shopping Center, put on by Princeton's automobile dealers, had done big business. Nearly 10,000 persons had turned out to nudge the tires and beep the horns of the 39 1954 models on display.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

February 17, 1949. One Princeton resident had run into double bad luck the previous weekend: he cracked his jawbone while eating oysters . . . and not on a pearl but on an oyster cracker.

The possibility of parking meters had so upset one group of Princetonians that they had banded together in February 1949 in committee and got mayor and council to give them three weeks in which to come up with a better plan. The plan: more off-street parking areas, which we now have.

We also, obviously, now have meters. They had been estimated in 1949 as a source of $14,000 annually in revenue. During 1963, they produced almost $78,000 in dimes, nickels and pennies.

PTA CELEBRATES

In Lawrenceville. Founders Day for the Lawrenceville Elementary PTA will be marked by a special PTA program and a Book Fair this Thursday at 7:15 p.m. in the All-Purpose Room of the school.

Mrs. Elaine Bush, school librarian, will speak on "You and the School Library," and will direct the attention of parents to the 500 books submitted to the Fair by the Princeton Book Mart. Mrs. Bush and Mrs. Keith Bradway are the directors of the Fair.

BIDS TOO HIGH

For Montgomery Addition. Bids on the proposed addition to the Montgomery Township School are higher than the school board's estimates, and have been referred to the architect for consideration.

The bids were opened Thursday at a special session of the school board. The board will meet next week to consider the results of the architects study.

ART IS TOPIC

For PTA Session. The study group of the Valley Road-Community Park PTA will meet at 1:30 next Wednesday, February 26, in the Community Park School.

Theodore Lynch, art teacher at the school, will discuss the art program and its role in the curriculum. He will show the work of the students.

Mr. Lynch, a graduate of State College, Edinburg, Pa., received his master's degree at Columbia's Teachers College. The lecture will be followed by coffee and discussion, concluding before school closes at 2:40.

PTA PLANS SESSION

For Sophomores' Parents. The parents of sophomores at Princeton High School are invited by the PTA to a meeting at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, February 26, in the cafeteria.

The school staff will discuss second-year students. The guidance department will explain the testing programs and the department's assistance to students. A question-and-answer period will follow.

HADASSAH TO MEET

THE LONG, BUSY DAY Of Mother Kirby. For Mother Joan Kirby, each day begins at the cold, dark hour of 5 a.m. In her seemingly unhurried way, she accomplishes an astonishing amount as headmistress of the Stuart Country Day School before her day closes 16 hours later.

Within her obscuring black habit of a Sacred Heart nun smiles a face with a depth of beauty and spirit no actress could hope to match.

She moves through the turbulence of a brand new school with a cool head and a frequent twinkle. Sometimes she forgets her dignity as headmistress and breaks into young laughter, quickly controlled.

As she talked about the school the other day, her eyes turned often to the great rocks beyond the building.

"The boulders look ages old," she remarked. "They have qualities of integrity and strength." Her graceful hands turned upward in her lap as she added, "Our building reflects this. "We are very, very pleased with it."

The Hammers' Beat. Mother Kirby's days have been hectic, accompanied by the timpani of bulldozers, tree saws and carpenters' hammers. Somehow always available, she sees a steady stream of parents, teachers, students, builders and visitors.

There are consultations with Rev. Mother Agnes M. Barry, vicar of the Sacred Heart house along the eastern seaboard; the architect Jean Labatut, with Mother Marie Louise Carmody, mistress of studies; with Sacred heart alumnae, the dietician and the telephone man. She finds time for leading classes in history and religion and — "joy of my day" — teaches French to the third grade. Abruptly at 5 p.m., perhaps none too soon, comes the quiet interlude of prayer.

Only a nun can guess another nun's age, but it is obvious that Mother Kirby is in her youthful prime as an educator. She has 20 to 30 good years ahead of her.

A native of Pelham, N.Y., and a Sacred Heart girl herself, she holds bachelor and master of arts degrees from Manhattanville College. After two years of graduate study, she received the License en Philosophie from the University of Louvian, Belgium. She is former assistant headmistress of the Stone Ridge Country Day School, Washington, D.C., and has traveled widely in Europe and South America before and since becoming a nun in 1948.

FAITH AND MORTAR: "If we can communicate to the children the joy that comes with knowledge," says Mother Joan Kirby, headmistress of the new Stuart School, "then we have begun to educate them." (Ulli Steltzer Photo)

Mother Kirby can also run like a deer. A child who tried one December day to lower the American flag on the pole outside can testify to this. wide-eyed, Mother Kirby spied the imp, flashed through the school doors, down the steps, across the drive and reached the flagpole before the girl finished untying the ropes.

Further, she has a deft hand with pancakes. This is most fortunate. When the nuns arrived at the uncompleted school last year, they camped out above the garage, plugging in hot plates for their cooking.

Mother Kirby has no complaints about the food. "Nuns are good cooks!" she laughs.

In those early days of mud and mortar, the Sacred Heart alumnae of this area rallied to make the nuns comfortable while their living quarters were completed They brought everything imaginable, from pots and pans to rugs.

"I don't know how they lived!" says one horrified alumna. "They didn't even have gas to cook with!"

The "Foundresses." The school opened in September ("The mud WAS a problem") with 104 girls enrolled from pre-school through 10th grade. The first of the "foundresses," as the girls call themselves, will be graduated in June, 1966.

"If they leave us with a deeply personal relationship with God, they will be better persons," Mother Kirby said "And this isn't learned just through religion classes . . . I think there is a profound relationship between spiritual and intellectual development."

"Open End." The eternal "why" is a strong part of the schooling. "Researchers in mathematics and science have produced curricula which makes it possible to provoke a question in a child's mind. A problem has a possible solution, and they are put in a position to think the way the scientists think.

"We'd like to do this in every single area. We want them to observe the world as the scientist, the poet or philosopher observes it."

Sharing the goals with her are the other teaching religious, Mother Diane Holt, Mother Ruth Schickel, Mother Mary Foley and Mother Joan Gannon and ten full and part-time lay teachers.

One of their techniques is the use of provocative bulletin board on the school walls. On one a news clipping is related to a photograph, on another a few drawings are pinned up — all food for thought designed by Mothers Gannon and Holt.

The entire sixth class went to Washington for the wedding of their teacher, Miss Barbara Boggs. Mother Kirby turned the outing into a training session.

The girls were briefed before thy left on the major issues before Congress. "I think it is tremendously important that they are aware of national and international concerns. They should become personally interested."

The girls toured the White House and the Smithsonian. The mother of Mother Malin Craig, school treasurer, took them to the late President Kennedy's grave in Arlington Cemetery.

"It is also important that they become aware of all aspects of their community's life." And so the upper school students have a Monday schedule of service at the Princeton Nursery School and St. Michael's Orphanage, Hopewell.

"Our first Christmas here was wonderful," Mother Kirby went on "There were so many opportunities for creativity on the part of the children."

Mother Kirby glanced at the massive rocks and the woods beyond. "We want to train their value judgments. They must grow strong, with a certain ruggedness of character, like the boulders outside."

BUSY DAY AHEAD

For Princeton Alumni. The Princeton National Alumni Association will hold its 50th annual mid-winter meeting on Washington's Birthday. The day-long program includes alumni preceptorials, special campus events, sports and exhibitions.

The preceptorials, which will center on "Princeton and the Arts," begin at 10:45 a.m. in the Firestone Library and the School of Architecture building. Charles A. Ryskamp, associate professor of English, is in charge. Introductory remarks by Dean J. Merrill Knapp are scheduled for 10 a.m. in the faculty lounge of the Library.

Also on the schedule is a band concert at 11:30 a.m. in Dillon Gymnasium followed by the traditional luncheon. Awards to be presented include the $1,000 Woodrow Wilson Award to an outstanding alumnus and the M. Taylor Pyne Honor Prize, the university's highest tribute to an undergraduate.

Other events include guided tours of the new architecture building and the Woolworth Center of Musical Studies, the Class of 1876 Memorial Prize debate in politics; poetry reading, a tea sponsored by the University League, and squash and hockey matches with Yale.

BIRTHS

Thirteen Born. Nine boys and five girls were born last week at Princeton Hospital. Two of the girls arrived on Valentine's Day.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Minguel Maldonado, Washington Street, Rocky Hill, February 9, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Felsher, 5 Glenview Drive, February 10; Mr. and Mrs. N. Dennis Stafford Jr., 11 East Delaware Avenue, Pennington, February 11; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Novel, 36 Hart Avenue, Hopewell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Saylor, 7 Savage Road, Kendall Park, both on February 14.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Bratcher, 8 Shirley Court, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilpin, 48 Murray Place, both of February 10; Mr. and Mrs. Herni Ruegg, 63 Einstein Drive, February 11; Mr. and Mrs. John J. Conole, 7 Robert Frost Drive, Trenton, February 12; Mr. and Mrs. James B. Smith, 48 Kingston Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Granville G. Miller, 716 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick, both on February 15; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Schurber, 11 Kirkpatrick Avenue, New Brunswick, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mickelsen, Griggstown, both on February 15.

TAX PLAN BACKED

By Princeton Democrats. The state income tax proposal of Governor Hughes is being backed by the Borough's Democratic Club and the Democratic Forum of Princeton Township. A joint resolution was passed last week, following Congressman Frank Thompson's talk at Community Park School.

Terming the tax plans a measure "vital to the future of every citizen of New Jersey," the resolution noted:

"The political battle will not be easy, but we are encouraged that know-nothingism is on the wane.

"A state income tax, the only sensible way to renovate the dangerously dilapidated economic structure of New Jersey and to assure minimal state services in health, education and welfare, should command the support not only of Democrats but also of foresighted Republicans and non-partisan organizations."

HELP STAMP OUT THE BEATLES: Not unexpectedly, Peter, Paul and Mary "don't appreciate" The Beatles elbowing them out of the top ten. However, the three, who shared the stage with the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan Show produced by the fifth grade at Community Park School, had some kind words to say about their rivals. (See below) In real life, Peter, Paul and Mary are, from left: Robert Bayer, Pamela Reich and Helen Hymerling whose father Leonard, is a member of the Township School Board. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of The Beatles?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Helen Hymerling, 297 Jefferson Road, 5th grader, Community Park School: They're okay. I think they're good. I like their hair and their songs. I hope I get a record of theirs.

Pamela Reich, Loomis Court, 5th grader, Community Park: I think they're really good. Their hair — that's one of the reasons I like them. None of the other singers have hair falling in their eyes everytime they bounce up and don. I think others singers like Peter, Paul and Mary don't appreciate them stealing their places in the top ten.

Robert Bayer, Pardoe Road, 5th grader, Community Park: I think Peter, Paul and Mary sing better than the Beatles. I think the Beatles are most popular for their haircuts. They sing pretty well, too.

Charlotte Yoder, Meadowbrook Drive, PHS cheerleader: I think they're cute, but I don't think they'll last that long; they're just a fad.

Pat Gaynor, Middlebush, PHS cheerleader: I think they have wigs on. I think they are untalented but I like them. I like their harmony; I think they harmonize very well. I wouldn't faint if I saw them or claw anybody to get to them.

Joan Caponi, 431 Ewing Street, PHS cheerleader: I think the reason they caught on is they're different. That's why everybody likes them. They probably sing pretty well but I'm not wild about them.

Dominic Mastroianni, 72 Witherspoon Street, PHS junior: I don't like them that much. Only their first song, "I Want to Hold Your Hand". I just don't think it's music, that's all.

Tommie Caldwell, 13 Grennview Drive, PHS senior: I don't like them; they don't sing very well. They're a typical stereotype of what adults think we go for and we don't I could choke everyone of them.

Linda Macauley, 188 N. Harrison Street, PHS sophomore: I definitely do not like the Beatles. I think they are being pushed on us, just as the "Singing Nuns" were. They're a fad because they came from another country and I think they'll vanish just as quickly as they appeared.

Mrs. Mark D. DeVoto, 223-D Halsey Street, housewife: I haven't heard them sing — but I think they look like dirty little dogs, really. I feel they must have good press-agents.

Henry Cygan, Holder Hall, University sophomore: They make some good music, they make some very good music. I think the hair fad is a little too far out but being a rock 'n' roll fan, I like them.

Mrs. David Cifelli, 109 Washington Road, housewife: Truly, I think it's ridiculous. What is this world coming to? To flip over something like this when it should be paying attention to the more important things of today. Of course, kids will be kids.

Mrs. Elsie Hamilton, Snowden Lane, housewife. I read an article in the New York Times in which the author said the Beatles would prove to be too amateurish for the sophisticated teen-agers in our country. Consequently, I was surprised to see them become so popular. Have they any talent? That's my question.

Paul Ford, 32 Balsam Lane, Lawrenceville School sophomore: I like them a lot. I think their music is good but I don't care too much for their singing. I like their haircuts — they're different.

Ted Solinsky, Trenton, tile layer: I think they're a bunch of nuts. They're ridiculous. You have to be a nut to make money in the world nowadays . . . grow three noses or something like that.

Miss Barbara Kearns, 129 Valley Road, Notre Dame High School junior: Oh, I think they're great! I love them. Their singing is their best feature. Everybody compares them to Elvis Presley but I don't think he can sing at all; the Beatles can.

Steve Goldburg, Antioch student, working six months for on-the-job-training at the New Jersey Psychiatric Institute. Skillman: I think they're a fine group, they're very intelligent men. They are selling the public in a smart, capitalistic sort of way. They should last about two years tand then be able to retire and count their money and do whatever they want for the rest of their lives.

Arthur Davis, 48 Prospect Avenue, waiter for Tiger Inn. I think they're a very nice group. They may have a little way to come to cultivate themselves, but they sing fairly nice. Their haircuts are just a novelty; I think they're okay.

Mrs. H. B. Bittner, Trenton, Princeton secretary: Oh. I think they're great but I am glad to hear they are not taking themselves seriously because I think that would be a mistake. When you reach the top, the only way you can gu is down.

Herbert Rutbrauff, Levittown, Pa., student at William and Mary: I think they are a great outlet for the teenager but I don't particularily care for them myself. But I don't think any critic can deny them the impact they have had on entertainment in this country. They're good for what they are selling — the hair cut doesn't hother me — but I don't think they are artists in the true sense of the word.

Mrs. Harry Cording, Stony Brook Road, Hopewell, housewife: I think the Beatles are having a great time hamming it up and laughing at themselves. They're in it to make money. It's just a craze like Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra.

Joseph Moffo, 5th grader, Community Park: I think they're cool cats because it's good music and everything. I think their hair makes them the best. Best singers since Elvis Presley. I think it will wear off soon, though. Another singer will come along and make people forget.

John Petrone, 5th grader, Community Park School: They're pretty good. It's not so much what they sing but the way they sing. The noise. Their hair is good. It makes them stand out. I'd like to know what John's wife thinks of his hair. Is it real or do they wear wigs is what I'd like to know.

Mark Jeffries, 5th grader, Community Park: I think they're good singers but not the best. They record okay, but they're not the greatest. All of the girls scream so much. That's what makes the people think they are good.

Edward Vernon, 5th grader, Community Park: They're all right but I don't think they're that hot. One thing I don't like is that Ringo doesn't sing. I think Elvis Presley is going to make another record and beat them out. I think they're making a good bit of money. I think that's why the girls are going for them because of their money and their hair.

Jeanne Ritenour, 20 Moore Moore Street, technician for Princeton Medical Labs: They're okay. The music is pretty good but I'm not wild about their haircuts.

Robert Frediani, 18 Henry Avenue, student, St. Paul's Junior High School: They're good singers but you can't undersatnd them as well as you can some of the more popular jazz singers. While I like their singing, I don't like the tricks they use, such as those kooky haircuts.

Mrs. Miriam Thiel, Blawenburg Road, Skillman, housewife: I think they're pretty silly, what with those haircuts, but I think they know how to make a fast buck.

ON-CAMPUS EXHIBIT

At Wilcox Hall. During the interim period of building on campus which is a regrettable lack of "live" exhibitions as a result of the Museum's temporary demise, it is heartening to find the Woodrow Wilson Society sponsoring a very fine exhibition of work by James Chapin. This show in the Conference Room of Wilcox Hall will be open to the public daily from 2 to 10 p.m. through March 10. Retrospective in character, the exhibit covers Mr. Chapin's career over the last 40 years.

As one of the earliest American cubists, he contributed to the famous Armory Show of 1913, which, in part, was re-staged last year in the same setting in New York City. In the 1920's, Mr. Chapin turned from non-objective art toward the realistic representation of figure in painting which became his forte.

As evident in his pictures here, he paints often with satirical emphasis. "Stricken Clown" is wretched and haunting in its exposure, "Call Girl" is what we consider the best figure in the show. Rough and biting in its commentary is "Beaten Boxer", and oh, was he ever K-oed! Many of the portraits are much cooler in feeling, painted with utter faithfulness to structure and careful in composition, such as in "Doris" and "Actress Making Up."

PRIZE-WINNER: "Old Man" by James Chapin was awarded the Isaac N. Maynard Prize at the National Academy of Design in 1956. It is among his paintings currently on display in the University's Wilcox Hall.

Country Subjects Included. The American countryside, particularly his own native New Jersey in the Glen Gardner area, has been the inspiration for much of his best work ever since his "return to the soil" and an initial "Marvin Period," referring to a farming family which became his subjects, not only as people but in their way of life. "Old Man" is not Marvin, but another real back-country character and well deserving of the Isaac N. Maynard Prize which it won at the National Academy of Design in 1956.

"Pretzel Man," sub-titled "Hebrew Spiritual" shows the gaunt grey man surrounded by the boisterous, and hearty and the curious, and tells with warm insight the tale of a rural county fair. In a completely different key, there is a portrait of "Little Girl in Snow Suit," most likely a family portrait done in the technique of the Impressionists.

Wilcox Hall is an attractive place in which to see paintings, and we hope that the Society will sponsor more shows of this caliber and interest for the students and the community at large.

Davis Pictures At U. Store. Jim Davis, whose explorations in space made the fascinating swan-song exhibition at the Princeton University Museum in June, is known for his insistence that Modern Art must move. Some will know about his motion pictures, the ultimate in his development of this thesis, after attending the Classic Film Bonus on Saturday night when "An Evening of Experimental and Independent Cinema" included two of Jim Davis' films, "Allegories No. 1" and "Processes."

However, in the process of producing his abstract films, in capturing a moving, changing art form, he has captured in still photography some of the effects he has used. These stills, which records or test shots of the motion pictures are on exhibit in the camera department of the Princeton University Store.

They are interesting to study from the point of view of art, photography and the challenge of subject matter, illusive in that it is the moving change of color produced by light. Some of these photographs are an underwater feeling; you look twice to make sure that the sands aren't shifting and a current is not actually changing the content.

Others are sharp and incitive, spearing the imagination to thoughts of exotic birds in flight or space-age missiles piercing the outer ether. Whatever the methods or results, these brilliantly colorful stills are hardly relaxing and Jim Davis is still on the move.

Art At McCarter. For the patrons' enjoyment entr-acte, the McCarter staff has planned exhibitions of paintings, graphics, stage designs, etc. to rotate through the seasons. Until March 9 there will be an exhibit of watercolors by Cyrene Taylor.

A graduate of Cornell University in the Fine Arts Department, 1939, Miss Taylor studied further in Syracuse and later taught art in the public schools of Manlius, New York. Though she has been in the printing industry in New York for a number of years, she likes to paint in her spare time and not only has shown in the Audubon Society exhibitions but also also received two travel Awards from the American Watercolor Society.

Several of her exhibits here at McCarter (those marked in red) are scheduled to go to France on the International Art Exchange Program. Nature and its various moods are the subjects of Miss Taylor's watercolors as indicated by titles such as "Soft Palisades," "Elm Tree Gothic," "Connecticut River Mood" and "Blue Fuss."

Cook Portrait Selected. A portrait painted by Peter G. Cook of Kingston has been chosen for the 139th annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design. It will be on view at the Academy's galleries, 1083 Fifth Avenue, New York, through March 15.

Mr. Cook is a non-member of the Academy whose work is one of 209 selected from among more than 1300 entries submitted to the jury elected from the membership. His portrait, a seated figure, is that of Miss Joan Wiggins of Dedham, Mass.

Lambertville House. Delaware Valley River and canal scenes are featured during February in the second Tercentenary Year Monthly Art Show series at the Lambertville House, Bridge Street, Lambertville. Hunterdon and Bucks County scenes painted in the 1920 era by the late R. Kenneth Nunamaker, on view in the Candlelight Lounge Gallery, have an artistic and historic quality of interest to those who value the scenic and historical aspects of the fast changing Delaware Valley.

New Jersey landscapes by the Tercentenary Art Award winner, Alexander Farnham of Tumble Falls, are shown in the adjoining 1812 Room Gallery. Farnham, who studied at the Art Students' League in New York City, was a U. S. Navy artist, 1945-1946. A recipient of over 50 awards and prizes, his studio is near the Devil's Tea Table at Tumble Falls on the Delaware. His favorite landscape scenes are of that vicinity. He teaches at the Stover Mill Art Centre in Tinicum Township near Erwinna, Pa.

TWO MORE TOWARD THE 51: Early in the second half Saturday night, Bill Bradley connected on a layup on his way toward the six records he set in the game. These two points gave him 30 to the 28 showing on the scoreboard for Harvard and when he left the game, he had 51 to the Crimson's 48.

SPORTS In Princeton

RACE COULD END EARLY If Yale Wins This Weekend. Two games which will go far to determine the outcome of the 1964 Ivy basketball race will be played this weekend in New Haven. If Yale's smoothly-functioning quintet defeats Princeton Friday and follows with a victory over Pennsylvania Saturday afternoon, the Elis will be virtual shoo-ins for the title.

Princetonians can watch the Yale-Penn contest Saturday at 2 over WNBC-TV. The Yale-Princeton game will also be televised Friday, but only over the Hartford channel which has drawn so many New York Football Giant fans to motels in Connecticut and on Long Island. Radio Stations WHWH and WPRB-FM will carry both the Tigers' games at New Haven and in Providence Saturday night against Brown.

A year ago, Princeton desperately needed to beat Yale on its own court and did so, 61 to 58, but Captain Art Hyland was in double figures along with Bill Bradley and who's to say that anyone will be with the Tigers' star on Friday? No other Princeton player has made it yet in an Ivy game away from home this season; in fact, in the two one-sided triumphs over Dartmouth and Harvard in Dillon Gym last weekend, only Bob Haarlow had 10 or better.

Last winter, Princeton ditched its traditional man-to-man defense for a 2-1-2 zone at New Haven. The effect was to cool off Rick Kaminsky, who took some of the pressure off the Tigers by fouling out while trying to guard Bradley.

Defense the Key. The contest seems sure to go to the team which can produce the tightest defense without having key players foul out. In Dillon Gym last month, the Elis were in trouble early trying to keep Bradley in check, three of their big men drawing three personals apiece before the intermission.

Princeton's inability to hold Harvard in check at Cambridge, where the Crimson hit for 62% and had the game broken open before the first half ended, still mystifies its followers here, particularly after the Crimson's loss to Penn on its own floor the following night and its unimpressive road trip last weekend. Any repetition of such defensive lapses against a veteran Yale team at New Haven will see the Tigers bow out of contention in the first 15 minutes of play.

Bradley's growing tendency to shoot far more often in the first half augurs well for an upset Friday: if he can produce upwards of 15 points in the first 20 minutes, it could just be that he will get enough help to give the Tigers' the edge in a low-scoring game. A high-scoring affair, however, seems sure to go to Yale.

Saturday's trip to Providence will raise the risk of the inevitable let-down after a vital game, but the Tigers should have enough left to handle a sub-par Brown quintet on its own court. The burden is really on Pennsylvania, however, in making the same New England swing. The Quakers must play at Providence Friday night and then take on Yale at New Haven the following afternoon with only 14 hours between the end of the first game and the start of the next.

BRADLEY MAKES HISTORY With Record-Smashing Spree. One achievement of Bill Bradley's last weekend will not go into the record books, but it may well be the most noteworthy performance of them all. When he left the game with 2:59 to go, he had scored 51 points to 48 for the entire Harvard team.

This was not a typically weak Crimson quintet by any means (over the years, Harvard has averaged only .317 in Ivy play and has never won a championship.) The Crimson came into Saturday's game with a 10-6 record and one of its highest scoring teams in history, but Bradley retired with a three-point margin over the combined efforts of nine Harvard players.

Some of his twisting, driving, off-balance layups had the capacity crowd alternately applauding, cheering, and howling in disbelief. It was typical of Bradley that the Tigers scored time and again because he passed off to a teammate near the basket when he might well have made the shot himself.

In all, the 6-5 junior broke six records, tied three others and led the Tigers to three team marks in field goal shooting. Records are kept in three categories (Dillon Gym, Princeton and Ivy), so that the same total often is good for three new entries into the book.

This was the wholesale revision undertaken by the statisticians:

• Bradley's 18 field goals are a new Dillon Gym and Ivy mark, erasing from the League record book such names as Tony Lavelli of Yale, Ernie Beck of Penn and George Farley of Cornell, all of whom had once made 16.

• His 51 points are Dillon Gym, Princeton and Ivy records. The latter two he set while playing Cornell last month; the Gym record returns to a Princetonian after Cornell's Farley had held it for almost four years.

• Bradley also raised his season's total to 695 points, breaking by 13 the mark he had set last year in four more games. His 15 free throws against Harvard tied Ivy and Dillon Gym marks and his 18 field goals matched the Princeton record he had made earlier this season against Wisconsin in the Kentucky Tournament.

• On Friday night, the Tigers' 44 field goals became a Gym, Princeton and Ivy record, surpassing all these previous highs by three. The 100 points against Dartmouth was the fourth time Princeton has hit three figures; Brown, Columbia and Rutgers all suffered the same fate, with the 106 against Brown ten years ago the all-time high.

Other than Bradley's performances, and the continued difficulty the other players had in scoring, there was little of note in the weekend action. One of the poorest teams seen in Dillon Gym in the post-war era was a 100-to-46 victim Friday as Dartmouth lost its 17th game in 19 starts.

Bradley scored 25 points during one stretch of 13 minutes and the Tigers piled up a huge 52-26 half-time advantage. In the final period, interest centered only on Bradley as long as he played the left with 39 points and seven minutes to go and whether the Tigers could put the 00 on the scoreboard for the second time in one night.

Harvard, and eventual 87-56 loser, provided a bit more in the way of opposition but Bradley was even better than he was against Dartmouth. It was 40-23 at the half and 82-48 by the time Bradley left to the longest standing ovation Dillon Gym has ever heard.

SKATERS TO PLAY YALE

Twice in Four Days. Princeton's chance to nail the cellar door down on the Yale Bulldog comes up in Ivy Hockey League action starting Saturday. The Tigers will meet the Elis Saturday at 3 in Baker Rink and play them again next Wednesday night in New Haven.

Having beaten Cornell while the Blue has failed to win in Ivy action, Princeton needs only a split with its Big Three rival to assure itself of ability to escape last place. Both teams have had season-long defensive problems, but the Orange and Black appears to have the edge on attack.

Two goals by Steve Cook kept the Tigers in the thick of the battle with Harvard, here on Saturday, the home team leaving the ice at the end of the first two periods tied 1-1 and 2-2. Cook got his first on a breakaway, neatly beating goalie Barry Sweitzer with a knee-level shot from a dozen feet out.

The Tigers' second goal was provided by Cook at 11 41 of the second period when the Crimson was a man short. Defenseman Sam Abernethy and forward Mike Peterman got assists when Cook found the mark on a quick thrust from center-stage that Sweitzer could not handle.

However, the Tigers missed two or three golden opportunities in the early going when they had a man in on the goalie alone, but could not beat him. As much as anything else, it was lack of a cushion that brought defeat when Harvard's greater depth began to pay off.

The Crimson scored four times in the first 11 minutes of the final round, forward Ike Ikauniks completing the hat trick during the course of the afternoon. Princeton outshot the victors, 32 to 30 (as it had Army earlier in the week) but could not make its shots count. The final score was 6 to 2.

Meanwhile, even fourth-place Harvard still has a shot at the title in the best race the league has known in several years. Cornell and Brown tied Saturday (2-2) to stay within a point of Dartmouth while the Indians were walloping Yale, 8 to 2, at New Haven.

The Indians, who have yielded only three goals in their last two Ivy games while scoring 15, have depth on their squad they haven't known since the 'fifties. In winning five of their first six league contests, they have averaged 5.8 goals per game while allowing only 2.8.

PHS TRIPS PEDDIE

Loses to Lawrenceville. If three years is long enough to note a trend, then followers of Princeton High School's cagers can add this to their grab bag of bits and pieces. The Little Tigers have the hex sign on Peddie.

In the previous two years PHS played masterfully against favored Peddie and won both times. This year was no exception. Playing almost flawlessly, the Blue and White turned a 10-point deficit into a 10-point victory to defeat Peddie Friday afternoon, 66-56.

Without question, the Peddie victory is one of the few peaks in the current so-so season. PHS coach Tony Borzok was in agreement when he said that the game was certainly one of the best his team has played this year. "It looked for a while like we would never go," he said, "but our boys wanted it and that was it."

Princeton needed a victory badly. The Peddie triumph broke a three-game losing streak and kept Princeton's hopes of ending with a .500 season alive. To do it, however, the Blue and White has no margin left, it must win its remaining three games to finish with a 9-9 record.

Such an ending is well within the realm of possibility, even though two of the three teams have already posted wins over the Little Tigers this sea-

THIS IS THE WAY IT'S DONE: Princeton High's top scorer, Wilbur Hines, demonstrates to three rapt students the proper way to drive in for two points. son. The first two games will be played on the PHS court, starting with Hamilton Friday evening at 7:30.

Hamilton represents the principal stumbling block. In defeating PHS 81-60 earlier, it posted the biggest score of the season run up against the Little Tigers. But Borzok refuses to be intimidated by the Hornets' success this year. "You just never can predict what will happen in this sport," he said.

On Monday afternoon at 3.30, the Little Tigers will play their final home game of the season against Hunterdon Central. Borzok reported that he knows very little about Central, but believes they are playing about .500 ball this year.

PHS will end its season February 28 in Pennington when it meets Central High School of Hopewell Township. Like Hamilton, the Bulldogs own a previous victory over PHS but they caught the losers still in the formative stage early in the season. If PHS plays as it did against Peddie, it could win all three.

Iron Five. The feeling that the Blue and White left its followers after the Peddie game was one of respect that one has after seeing an artist perform at his best. Five men played all but the final minute of the contest — Tom Waters, (5 points) Pete Heiberger (13) Larry Madden (9), Jim Tucker (19) and Wilbur Hines (20)—and they were superb.

Princeton started slowly, perhaps adjusting to the changes Borzok had made in its offensive and defensive strategy. The most noticeable were inserting Madden for Dave Hill and taking Hines out from under the basket and moving him to the outside. (Opposing teams had been double - teaming Hines under the basket and containing him with some success, Borzok reported.)

Early in the second period Peddie pulled away to a 30-20 lead, mainly on superior shooting. But with Hines hitting for six, the next nine points were registered by PHS and by half time, Peddie's lead had shrunk to 34-32.

The second half was all Princeton. Madden tied it at 34-all with a bucket following the opening half tap. Hines hit for two to put the home team in front for keeps. The Little Tiger never let up.

Hitting at 52%, they started to drop shots in from all angles and all the Peddie defenders could do was shake their heads as they saw the game slipping away. Just before the end, PHS led by 14 points.

Long before the games end, Peddie's coach, John Bristor, became subdued on the bench, as if resigned to the hex PHS holds over his teams. For Peddie, it was the seventh defeat in 15 outings.

Different Story. Two days earlier at Lawrenceville School's Lavino Field, it was an entirely different story. PHS spent all afternoon trying to find its shooting eye with little success and sustained a lopsided 79-60 defeat.

At the half, it was Lawrenceville, 40-28. To underscore Borzok's contention that you can't predict what will happen, this same Lawrenceville team was defeated by one point by Peddie.

Four players hit double figures for the losers. Co-captain Tom Waters led with 14, followed by Hines, 13, Tucker, 12, and Heiberger, 10.

IT'S ALL OVER FOR HUN

To Enter Tournament. Failure to defeat its arch-rival, Pennington School, has virtually eliminated any hope Hun School may have had this year of capturing the Penn-Jersey League title. "Mathematically, it's still possible for us to back into a tie, but, realistically, it's out of reach unless something peculiar happens," said Hun coach Bob Simpson.

The Red and Black ended its regular season play Wednesday against Moorestown Friends, but the team will not turn in its uniforms yet. Because Pennington was unable to participate in the annual New Jersey Prep School post-season tournament, Hun will go in its place.

In the opening round, Hun will oppose Newark Academy on Wednesday. The game will be played on a neutral court—the Delbarton School gymnasium. In previous years, Hun has never done well in this tourney.

As expected, Hun breezed by Germantown Friends here Saturday, 62-42. Playing in the Princeton Seminary gymnasium, the Johnny Huns forged to a 29-10 halftime margin and were never in trouble. The triumph was their seventh in 13 games and left them with a 7-4 record in League competition.

Hun's "Big Three" of captain Scott Page, Ted Isaacson and Mike Miller combined for 47 points. Miller, a sophomore, led with a game-high mark of 18.

Fails to Hold Lead. Despite Hun's fine showing against the Quakers' it was largely wasted effort. It didn't mean much because the Red and Black had lost a 51-47 decision to Pennington three days earlier. The loss was the fourth straight to the Red Raiders. Since becoming coach two years ago, Simpson has yet to beat Pennington and he reported he was beginning to get a "little anxious" about the situation.

Not only did Hun lose, but it was the manner in which it lost to the visitors which made defeat even harder to take. Hun outscored Pennington in each of the first three periods and at one point enjoyed a seemingly insurmountable 14-point lead. But it was Pennington's Carl Nitti who proved to be insurmountable.

Until the final period, Nitti had scored only two points. But then he became unbearably hot. Hitting on a variety of field goals from all angles, Nitti shot his team into contention. Before he was through, he had pumped in 14 points in the period.

Once again, Page (19), Miller (11) and Isaacson (16) paced the losers, combining for all but one point. Unfortunately, Tryg Slettleland, who had been averaging 8.5 points per game, picked this encounter to register his season's low of one point.

PCD SKATERS WIN TWO

In Annual Trip North. The Princeton Country Day School's hockey team won both of its contests during its annual trip to New England. It beat the Taft lower school team, 8-0, and the Kent lower school, 7-1.

In the Taft game, PCD scored three goals in the first period, with one each by Hugh Samson, Whit Raymond and Jeff Delano. After a scoreless second period, PCD hit the nets five times in the final, with three goals by Wally Shew and one each by Jeff Delano and Bill Kehoe.

Against Kent the following day, Whit Raymond and Jeffrey Griggs scored in the opening period to give PCD a 2-0 lead. The game was played on Kent's outdoor artificial ice with high winds, cold and snow throughout the contest.

After Kent scored its lone goal in the second period, Jeffrey Griggs and Bill Kehoe ran the score to 4-1 for PCD. A goal by David Battle and two more by Jeffrey Griggs in the third period made the final count 7-1.

Those from PCD who made the trip: David Battle, Tom Budney, Jeff Delano, Jeffrey Griggs, Aubrey Huston, Bill Kehoe, Rickey Meredith, Kit Raymond, Whit Raymond, Scott Reid, Hugh Samson, Peter Samson and Wally Shew.

PCD FIVE LOSES, 46-42

To Witherspoon School. Princeton Country Day School's basketball team lost last week by a 46-42 margin to Witherspoon School. Witherspoon's victory came as the result of a late rally.

PCD led throughout most of the game and had a 25-12 edge at the half. High scorers for PCD were Mike Simko and Captain Bruce Johnson.

BOWLING NOTES

Thorne's Breaks Tie. Thorne Pharmacy broke the deadlock with Nassau Delicatessen last week and now leads the Nassau League with 18 wins. Nassau Delicatessen and Grover Lumber are tied for second at 16, followed by Decker's Dairy and Crescent, tied at 14 each.

Only two Nassau League bowlers equalled or exceeded the 200-mark in individual games. Frank Sannino rolled a 208, and Wall Kozachek had had one game of 200.

In the Princeton Three-Man Classic, Colonial Restaurant held a firm grip on first place with 45½ wins, Johnson Electric, with 37 games won, continued in second.

Bruce Hennstein, with a 211, was high man for the week in the Three-Man Classic in individual game scores. Others scoring 200 or better were: Frank Delneso, 208 and 200; Jack Lucey, 206; Larry Golden, 202, and Frank Maddalon and Vic Wyszynski, 200 each.

A four-way tie for first exists in the Princeton Women's League. Gropps Tavern, Hampshire House, Kingsway Motor and the First National Bank of Cranbury have all scored 24 wins.

High one-game scorer for the week was Betty Watson with 204. Marcia Jones rolled a 197 and Elizabeth Braun a 191.

...is a leader in urban renewal!

New Jersey is among the nation's leaders in urban renewal activity. At this very moment, sixty-eight communities are engaged in progressive, vigorous urban renewal programs — all geared to making our state a better place to live and work. Urban renewal activity has progressed at an accelerated rate, with over fifty percent more communities now in the planning stage than at this time last year.

Total cost to complete these fresh, healthy new skylines will be nearly $300 million. New housing, modern industrial developments, community and cultural centers are springing up everywhere, thanks to New Jersey's keen planning for the future through far-reaching urban renewal projects.

MUSIC In Princeton

PHILADELPHIANS HEARD

Ormandy Conducts. The Philadelphia Orchestra, conducted by Eugene Ormandy, played to a packed house in McCarter Theatre Monday night. The program included the Concerto for String Quartet and Orchestra written in 1850 by Louis Spohr, the Fifth Symphony of Roger Sessions, completed this year, and the First Symphony of Johannes Brahms, first performed in 1876.

The Spohr Concerto unfortunately is 23 minutes of music for inattentive listening. It is derivative music, or perhaps middle 19th century Muzak.

The first movement, Allegro moderato, was pervaded by a dull basic pulse in the orchestra which none of the "busy-busy", highly-skilled playing of the solo quartet could subdue. The middle Adagio was the most fetching of the three movements, freighted with beautifully played cliches.

The concluding Rondo was an exercise in dextrousness galore, tunefully aimless and certainly more fun to play than to hear. The content of this work seemed not to be deserving of the "finery" of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Louis Spohr, 1784-1859, was a triple-threat man in German, Italian, English and Dutch music circles, appearing as composer, performer and conductor. For those of you who wish to hear the work again it can be found on a Urania label done by the Linz Symphony.

Sessions' Symphony Praised. Roger Sessions' Fifth Symphony on the other hand, is 15 minutes of compelling sonority. The work begins and ends with tranquil sound, with fast, slow, fast sections in between.

The work has lyric areas of decided beauty as the composer makes use of compound intervals in his melodic design. The work is strong but never tragic, tough but never fierce. Every effect is successful. Every terrace of sound is surefire.

One is very aware that the composer's craftsmanship shapes his textures. To this reviewer it is a highly successful piece for orchestra and rewarding for the listener, but perhaps not so much a symphony as a symphonic poem, as the trek of the work seems programmed in something other than formal symphonic result. Certainly this is not to take away from the work as creation, but merely a question of category. The Sessions' composition is the fourth work commissioned by Mr. Ormandy and was given its world premiere at the Academy of Music on February 7. The work is well played by the orchestra and given exciting dramatics by the conductor.

Brahms Work Concludes. After intermission the closing 44 minutes were involved with an intense performance of the Symphony No. 1 in C minor of Johannes Brahms. Truly this is a symphony that has big music for a big idea and smaller music for a lesser idea. This symphony is the result of Brahms having lived with its jottings for over 20 years and is a work from within — a symphony in the "grand style" which motivates greatness of listening.

The Philadelphia Orchestra led by Ormandy gave the audience the musical ideas in clear design from the opening sounds, and in the first movement created an allegro involved with off-centered rhythms, rock-hewn melody and tempo-guiding harmony, giving the listeners a feeling of intense, exalted somberness. The second movement showed intensity of lyric feeling, a movement that lives in peaceful air.

The third movement was played with beguiling loveliness, a movement dissuasive of sorrow, — a grazioso peculiar to Brahms with the orchestra meeting its every intention. The last movement in point of time is almost half of the work. Its introduction seems to state an end of sadness and a bridge to happiness with its horn calls and organlike passages.

All of this gives way to the famous allegro and its veneer affinity to the last movement of the Beethoven ninth. When someone confronted Brahms with this similarity, he commented, ". . . . and it is also regretable that any ass can see it at once" This is the symphony that in 1877 was hissed by the Classicists, not the Wagnerites.

The Philadelphia Orchestra gave the Princeton audience an evening of music for symphony orchestra. In both the Sessions and the Brahms the orchestra became a glorious instrument played on by a master conductor.

BACH CONCERTS PLANNED

By Symphonic Choir. The Symphonic Choir of Westminster Choir College will give the first of two concerts with the Philadelphia Chamber Orchestra at 8 p.m. this Sunday in Carnegie Hall. George Lynn is choir director.

The program of Bach cantatas, Numbers 79 and 147, repeated March 1 in Philadelphia's Academy of Music. Anshel Brusilov will conduct the programs.

Feature soloist will be Janice Harsanyi, soprano, head of the voice department at Westminster and a faculty member at Princeton Seminary. Mr. Lynn is Town Topics' music critic.

CONCERT ON SUNDAY

By Kovacs, Wells. Violinist Joseph Kovacs and David Wells, violoncellist, will give a concert at 3:30 Sunday in 10 McCosh Hall, Princeton University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton, the concert is free.

On the program are Bach's "Sonata No. 1 in G. minor for Violin Solo;" Edward T. Cone's "Sonata for 'Cello Solo," and Zoltan Kodaly's "Duo for Violin and 'Cello."

Mr. Kovacs, concertmaster of the Princeton Symphony, is a native of Budapest and holder of the Artist's Diploma, Hungary's highest award to an instrumentalist. He is a faculty member at Douglass College and Westminster Choir College.

Mr. Wells, who teaches at Hartt College of the University of Hartford, has toured extensively with chamber groups such as the Columbia Concert Trio, the Manhattan Trio and the Hartt String Quartet. Winner of numerous awards, he has appeared as soloist with orchestras here in the east.

"New Star on Nassau Street."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The wraps have come off the remodeled shop between The Country Mouse and Thorne's Pharmacy. A new star shines on Nassau Street. I nominate Charles H. Draine's new realty office for an award for excellence in architecture in the best tradition of the Princeton community.

How is this possible? Its style is obviously not "colonial". That is precisely the point!

Not only has the University long maintained her position as a world leader in higher education but also the town has consistently pioneered solutions to typical political and social problems of the exurban community. Witness the much lauded "Princeton Plan" for school integration.

Our principal "industry" has always been education, research, and related brain businesses. Our many comfortable homes house families rich in intellectual appetite, cultured taste, social conscience, and nurtured individuality.

Is perpetuation of mediocrity in public architecture consistent with this community character? Is this a tradition which takes refuge behind copy-cat conformity to outmoded forms on Main Street because it is afraid of new ideas? Are we so unsure of our taste and perceptiveness that we cry "foul" at the appearance of contemporary design on the chance that it may turn out to be juke box modern?

Let us then look closely at this nicely proportioned, elegantly detailed, richly colored office front and offer our congratulations to Mr. Draine and his architect, George H. Pearson of Lawrenceville. Let it serve as a modest guidepost to a community responsibility so recently recognized by our University in its building program. It is surely in the finest Princeton tradition.

Lacrosse Overlooked at PHS
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reading your article on the hockey club which has been formed at the High School (Town Topics, February 6), I was quite surprised to see the amount of support and funds the Board of Education had given. Last spring a similar attempt had been made to form a lacrosse club within the school, but had met with complete avoidance by school officials. The team was forced to turn to the University for support, which it received through the kindness and guidance of Ferris Thomsen, Ken Parker and Spencer Willard.

Unfortunately the High School still would not recognize the team or allow it to use its fields for practice, regardless of the fact that no money was being asked for. It seems quite ironic that in the same year a large amount of money and support is being given by the same Board of Education to a club of considerably less organization and feasibility.

Lacking any recognition the team was still able to compose itself and come out of the season with a 6-2 record, against more experienced competition. I only hope that the school will "lower" itself to the determination of the Princeton Lacrosse Club this spring.

PETER E. SMITH
(Co-captain Lacrosse, 1963)
201 Prospect Avenue.

Editor's Note: Sixty-six boys at Princeton High School have signed up for lacrosse this spring, and have asked the Board of Education for $834.25 to help underwrite the cost of an eight-game schedule. A committe consisting of Kenneth Michael, Principal; Dr. Chester B. Stroup, Superintendent of Schools; Joseph R. Jingoli, Director of Athletics, and Dr. Howard S. Unangst, school physician, has been studying the request and will report to the Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday.

Caption was Inappropriate.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As one of those inolved in inviting Manzo Nomura to Princeton, may I express my objection to the caption placed under his picture in the issue of February 6th? Mr. Nomura is a distinguished Japanese artist who has been given the highest cultural award of his government, and he certainly deserves more than that caption, which is at best cute and inappropriate.

These seems to be a growing tradition in TOWN TOPICS of writing captions tinged with cuteness or sheer bad taste, and it might be advisable to depart from it.

ARTHUR SZATHMARY
41 University Place

P.S. I might add that in the same issue one of your reporters gave a quite inaccurate account of what happened during the Souzay "incident". Under the circumstances, the baritone's reaction was very restrained. He was absorbed in singing the Schumann Lied with great sensitivity (certainly "working over" was not the way to put it), and that "tiptoeing" could, as he said, have taken place a few minutes earlier or later, out of an impulse of elementary courtesy.

Editor's Note. TOWN TOPICS' caption under a picture of a smiling Japanese actor shown with a variety of comic masks, said: "WHICH ONE IS MR. NOMURA? A Japanese comic tradition 400 years old will be presented to Princeton audiences when Manzo Nomura and his sons come to Murray Theatre on Monday." The intent, as with all captions, was to invite the reader to look at the picture; TOWN TOPICS regrets that Mr. Szathmary feels its choice of words was in bad taste.

As for the episode involving a woman's leaving McCarter over baritone Gerald Souzay's objection while he was singing, the fact that no one knows whether she was answering an emergency telephone call or suddenly became ill. Until disproved, the assumption is that she had the right to leave the theatre when she did without being called to account for it from the stage.

ARE YOU NEW TO PRINCETON? You'll find "Almanac for Newcomers" delightfully interesting and informative reading. Copies available without charge at TOWN TOPICS, 4 Mercer Street.

A Friend of Mankind.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Writing as a fairly frequent bus-user and as a friend of mankind and lover of Princeton, I would like to suggest that Weather shelters be erected in front of Presbyterian Church and directly across Nassau Street for those waiting for local and long distance buses. They could be designed and built for very little money with all glass and steel materials, fashioned like the chinese pagoda on the tennis courts.

A turnstile set for two cents the first year and one cent the second year would pay the cost. A joint venture by both bus companies, the Church and the Borough might get this done. Incidentally, why not plant two new trees on Palmer Square where some energetic choppers cut two others down a year ago?

Special Interests Rule.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

This letter is a protest about the lead item in "This is Princeton appearing in the February 13 issue of TOWN TOPICS. This piece of yellow journalism ridicules Mr. Charles La Placa, and scorns his efforts to determine his legal rights to his property.

It is unfortunate that many governmental operations in Princeton are ruled by the philosophy that the end justifies the means. All too often a double set of standards applies. All too often the many boards and committees are mere pawns of special interests.

How are we to respect our local government when its actions are inconsistent and illogical, when one week it announces it will firmly uphold a certain position; and the next week meekly capitulates to the pressure groups? How can there be respect for zoning laws when a church deliberately ignores them; or when seven inches makes a fence too high, but seven stories makes a building efficient and acceptable? What principles guide the granting of a variance?

What are the rights of Mr. La Placa, the Westminster Choir School, or Princeton University?

It is unlikely that Mr. La Placa is any more "handsomely-tweeded" than some of the sanctimonious characters in Princeton who believe their views are so sacrosanct.

100-ACRE TRACT BOUGHT By The Princeton Co. The purchase of a 100-acre tract of land in the western section of Princeton Township has been contracted for by The Princeton Co., according to an announcement by Henderson Talbot, the president of the firm. The tract lies on the north side of Mercer Road and east of the Princeton-Lawrence Township line.

The seller, the Virginia Construction Co., owned by Burcham F. Bonner, installed roads and storm drains on the property a few years ago. Several one-acre lots on Mercer Road were sold and houses built on them during the previous ownership.

In his announcement, Mr. Talbot said that the new owners will extend sewer and water lines to the property. Chairman of the company, which has offices at 106 Alexander Street, is Basil W. Stetson.

In addition to Mr. Stetson and Mr. Talbot, directors of The Princeton Co. include Dr. George H. Gallup, Alfred O. Hoyt, Donald B. Jones, John P. Poe and Dr. J. Mercer Rampona.

RESEARCH PARK OR NOT? Princessville in Doubt. Plans for the Princessville Research Park may have to be drastically altered if a proposed $4,700,000 apartment house project is not approved. This is what Blackwell Smith, chairman of the Princessville Research Park Corp. told the Lawrence Township planning board at a special session last week.

If the project is turned down, the area might be opened for small homes and other non-research purposes, Mr. Smith told the board. He is interested in turning over 47 of the 800-acre tract to an Elizabeth builder for the construction of 470 apartment units.

The site of the proposed construction is a triangular-shaped plot at the corner of the Princeton Pike and Franklin Corner Road, extending back to the proposed Freeway 129 route through the property. Mr. Smith's proposal was met with mixed reactions by planning board members.

Lawrence Township Committeeman Joseph M. Mahan, who is also on the planning board, is quoted as being "definitely against the idea." Noting that, in the 1962 referendum on apartment houses, voters had disapproved of having apartments in the township, Mr. Mahan said he thought residents hadn't changed their minds on the idea.

Conflict Cited. Charles E. Connell Jr., chairman of the Lawrence Township Economic Development Committee and also a township committeeman, read a statement from the development group opposing the project. The proposed apartments, the statement said, "would be wholly in conflict with the objectives for which the research area was created."

Mr. Smith told the board that the research park and Canaveral - Princeton Lands, Inc., the parent company, needed a project of this kind to stay solvent. The companies entered into a voluntary reorganization recently and could go into receivership in a short time if they are not able to convert some of their assets into cash.

"We have plenty of resources, but no cash," said Mr. Smith. "This apartment house project would get the companies back on their feet."

Mr. Smith also asked that the 25-acre limit be lowered to five and that the area be opened to light industry and research plants of a "campus type" nature. He added that, in his opinion, such changes would speed up development of the area and would result in a "sound municipal economy and provide for the general prosperity of the residents."

Mr. Smith said that Princessville had not been able to find any organization interested in the park since the Holland-Rantos Company failed to locate there allegedly because of opposition from Union Bag-Camp Paper Company, the park's only occupant.

Dr. William H. Aiken, director of research for Union Bag, said he was neither for or against the proposals made by Mr. Smith to the board. He added, however, that at least some of the area should be left available for large research installations.

VAUGHAN PROMOTED By RCA. A John Vaughan of 39 Evergreen Circle has been appointed chief engineer of the Astro-Electronics Division of Radio Corporation of America.

He will direct all engineering functions of the division, which built the successful TIROS series of weather satellites, the RELAY communications satellites and other space systems.

Mr. Vaughan joined RCA last year as a member of the division's technical advisory staff. He is a native of Great Britain and was previously with the guided weapons division of English Electric. There he held managerial positions on various projects, including chief engineer for the Thunderbird missile weapon system.

Prior to that time, he worked in instrumentation systems for missiles and aircraft for the Bristol Aeroplane Company. A former Royal Air Force officer, Mr. Vaughan is a graduate of the City and Guilds College of London University.

NEW TICKERS ORDERED For Two Princeton Firms. Clark, Dodge & Co. and Laidlaw & Co. of Princeton will be among the numerous brokerage firms in the country which will have new, high-speed stock tickers installed for operation in October. The tickers are leased by Western Union.

The new equipment will almost double the speed of the ticker system now serving members of the New York Stock Exchange. It will have a printing speed of 900 characters a minute compared with the present 500-character-per-minute installation which has been in operation since 1930.

NEW POST: A. J. Vaughan will direct all engineering functions at RCA's Astro-Electronics Division.

CARTER NAMES DUANE As Sales Representative. Carter-Princeton, the electronics division of Carter Products Inc., has announced its 18th sales representative organization, Duane Electronics of Denver. Duane will cover a seven state area in the West.

Richard D. Hoyt, Carter-Princeton's sales director, made the announcement. The firm, located at 178 Alexander Street, designs and manufactures specialized thermoelectric devices for cooling, heating and temperature control.

"PARTAKE" PLAN HERE With New Franchise Idea. A new organization designed to help people start, and succeed, in their own businesses is now available to people in the Princeton area. The firm, called "Partake," is represented here by Donald W. Wilson, area director.

The originators of Partake, a national franchise business development firm, have set down a three-part program aimed at stimulating industry and helping individuals in realizing their business potential.

The program is essentially simple yet unique, Mr. Wilson says. First is the selection and training of area directors for Partake.

Second, the area director helps qualified men and women select business opportunities which are sound and potentially profitable. Third, Partake assists companies in developing sound franchise programs and in reducing the profit squeeze through more effective distribution.

Mr. Wilson, Partake's area director for Princeton and surrounding communities, has his headquarters in Gladstone. Telephone number is 201-234-1313.

News Of The CHURCHES

PASTOR WITHDRAWS

From Assembly Vote. The Rev Benjamin J. Anderson of Witherspoon Church has dropped out of the campaign for moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church.

His candidacy for the denomination's leading role was advanced in November by the 45 churches in the Central Jersey Presbytery of New Brunswick.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson has decided instead to serve as executive secretary of the new state-wide Commission on Religion and Race, established by the Synod. Headquarters are expected to be located in Princeton.

This post will allow him to remain with his congregation. As the Presbyterians' chief spokesman, he would have to be absent most of the year.

Still in the running is the Rev. Elder Hawkins of St. Augustine's Presbyterian Church of the Bronx, also a Negro. The Rev. Mr. Hawkins lost out by one vote in a previous election. Some 800 representatives of the church presbyteries will meet in Oklahoma City in May for the elections.

Mr. Anderson was endorsed by the New Brunswick Presbytery as a man who could make the church a force for good race relations in this presidential year. "It would certainly be a great honor," Mr. Anderson said, noting that his endorsers "have been quite understanding of my position."

UNITY GROUP FORMED

By Church Laymen. Members of ten Princeton churches have formed a "Princeton Christian Unity Committee" to further understanding. A printed report on the past year's study has been sent to the clergy for their consideration, and for distribution among their congregations.

"Our conversations," the group reports, "have ranged over a broad spectrum of theological, liturgical, financial and social dimensions of Christian unity. We are still very much in the middle of this dialogue . . ."

Or, as a male member of PCUC said informally, "This is a pretty violent group! We speak right out . . . and we've had some really hot discussions . . ."

The group began experimentally in January 1963. The Rev. Walter D. Wagoner, executive director of the Fund for Theological Education, acted as convenor.

Members have been meeting in the various churches, asking and fielding sharp questions. "I have a feeling," said one, "that they can hardly wait to get out to my church and see how WE'RE going to do!"

Signers of the PCUC report are J. Roger Hite, Winifred Vogt, Ann Westover and J. Rogers Woolston, all of Calvary Baptist Church; Carl Briscoe, Ruth Hahn, Marjie Scott and William Skippwith of First Baptist Church.

Michel Pradervand and the Rev. Mr. Wagoner of First Presbyterian Church; Ingrid Rose, Ulli Steltzer, Harry Siccop and Bonnie Wagner, Messiah Lutheran; Reeves Black and Glenn R. Fryling, Princeton Methodist.

George Lewis, Anne Mason, George Rohrbacher, Noel Sokoloff, Natalie Vaughan and Harrison Young, all of Trinity Episcopal Parish; Brigid Elson and Monroe Wade of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

Lorraine Boynton and Helen Stitely, Second Presbyterian Church; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gustafson, Society of Friends, and Ermaline Gaskins and Morgan Harris of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church.

Proposals. The PCUC proposes to continue its study and work on several levels. One of them is "a thorough probing and discussion of the comparative theological, ecumenical, and doctrinal issues related to Christian unity."

It wants to undertake a systematic study of specific areas of possible unity and cooperation. It would like to work towards ministerial and congregational exchanges and visits, improvement in Roman Catholic-Protestant relations, Princeton lectures by ecumenical leaders, and cooperative enterprises related to religious education (summer schools, youth programs, religion in public schools, etc.)

PCUC lists, in all, 12 areas in which it would like to study and work. Information concerning the program and membership are available through the secretary, 163 Nassau St.

"NOT A CANDIDATE": The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, has decided not to run for the highest post in the United Presbyterian Church of the USA. He is pastor of Witherspoon Church.

LADDER MARKS GOAL

Of Calvary Baptist Drive. C. Price Smith is serving as chairman of Calvary Baptist Church's campaign to burn the mortgage. A ladder outside the church marks the $17,500 "victory goal" and the $21,000 "challenge goal."

The church was built five years ago on Walnut Lane. During the three prior years, the founders held services at Westminster Choir College across the street. The Rev. Kenneth S. Dannanhauer is pastor.

Assisting Mr. Smith are Kenneth L. Maxwell, advance gifts; Dr. Roger L. Crane and Gordon R. Bolton, general gifts; Flora Cox, treasurer; J. Roger Hite, financial secretary, and Helen A. Wood, hospitality.

A loyalty dinner this Friday will officially open the drive. The general membership will be contacted on Monday and Tuesday. The Rev. Horace M. Taylor, a professional fund-raiser from the American Baptist Convention, is assisting the campaign.

BULLETIN NOTES

Former Editor. Irving Dilliard, retired chief editorialist of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, will address the men's breakfast at 8 a.m. this Sunday at First Presbyterian Church. Cited in 1959 by the American Bar Association for his writings on the judicial system, Mr. Dilliard will discuss, "Are We Undermining Our Bill Of Rights?" He is currently Ferris Professor in Journalism at Princeton University. Reservations deadline is Friday.

Two Speakers. The Rev. Dr. Howard L. Rubendall, president of Dickinson College, and Alec Wyton, organist at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, will speak next week at Westminster Choir College.

Dr. Rubendall will speak at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the chapel. Mr. Wyton is scheduled to discuss "Where Is Church Music Headed?" at 8 p.m. Monday in the chapel.

Obituaries

Joseph E. Nutt Jr., 56, of 25 Murray Place died suddenly on February 16 in New York City. He was the husband of Mrs. Maybel G. Nutt. A lifelong resident of Princeton, Mr. Nutt operated a taxicab business since 1930.

Also surviving are a son, Joseph 3d, two daughters, Mrs. Norman A. Ratner of Yorktown Heights, N. Y., and Mrs. Myrna E. LaVake of Cranbury; a sister, Miss Edythe E. Nutt of Princeton and four grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home, with the Rev. Dr. William L. Tucker and the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton of Second Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Anna L. Blydenburgh, 88, died February 15 at her home on Drakes Corner Road after a lengthy illness. She was the widow of Charles E. Blydenburg, and a lifelong Princeton resident.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Mary Kiefer of Princeton; ten grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Charles W. Marker of Princeton Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Princeton Cemetery.

Charles H. Raymond, 85, died February 17 in a Vero Beach, Fla., nursing home. He was master emeritus at The Lawrenceville School.

Mr. Raymond, who retired from the active faculty in 1944, was regarded by his colleagues as an unusually successful teacher of literature, housemaster and coach. Born in Wilbraham, Mass., he was a member of the school's Class of 1894.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Wesleyan University, Class of 1899, he captained the football team in his junior and senior years. He taught at The Hill School for one year before coming to Lawrenceville as master in English and assistant master of Woodhull House. In 1904, he received an M.A. from Harvard.

At Lawrenceville Mr. Raymond served successively as master of Roschill house, Davis House and Cleve House. He was head coach in football for many years, and chairman of the English department from 1920 until he retired.

Mr. Raymond edited Charles Kingsley's novel, "Hereward the Wake," for Macmillan and Company. He later published "Story Lives of Famous Authors." His verse frequently appeared in magazines and newspapers.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Jeannette McP. Raymond of Stuart, Fla., and four children: Macpherson Raymond of Princeton; Mrs. William F. Merritt of West Chester, Pa., Mrs. David S. Durant of Stuart, and Miss Elizabeth Raymond of Woodstock, N. H.; and three sisters, Mrs. R. Nelson Bennett of Scarborough, N.Y.; Mrs. Constance Harrah of New York City, and Mrs. John S. McPherson of Jensen Beach, Fla.

The funeral was held at First Presbyterian Church of Stuart, Fla. A special memorial service will be held at The Lawrenceville School chapel in the spring with interment at the Lawrenceville Cemetery.

Peter S. Hullfish, 96, of 2341 Main Street, Lawrenceville, died February 15 in Helene Fuld Hospital. He was the widower of Mrs. Susie D. Hullfish.

A resident of Lawrenceville for the past 67 years, Mr. Hullfish was for 47 years co-owner of the Hullfish Brothers General Store. He was a member of the New Jersey Exempt Firemen Association.

Surviving are a son, Raymond, of Lawrenceville; a brother, James E. of St. Petersburg, Fla.; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Officiating at the funeral service in Pennington were the Rev. Dana Fearon of Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Charles R. Howell of Calvary Presbyterian Church, Camden. Interment was in Lawrenceville Cemetery.

James Geddis, 64, of 7 Union Street, Kingston, died February 14 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was the husband of Mrs. Isabella Geddis.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Mr. Geddis lived in Kingston and Princeton for the past 30 years. He was a member of the grounds and buildings department at Princeton University for 26 years.

Also surviving are a daughter, Miss Mary Geddis, and two sons, James and John, all of Kingston.

High requiem mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery, under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

community, and involving a serious legal principle, are an outrage to journalistic decency.

Regardless of the merits of Mr. LaPlaca's case (and despite Princeton's patent need for low-cost housing my sympathies are with Mr. LaPlaca in what smacks of a steam-roller operation) there was no justification for dragging in such irrelevancies as his tweeds, his "smoky" eyes, or his shaving brushes.

GUY KELLY
(Mrs. T. H. Kelly)
26 Library Place

Black Ink, Not Red.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The "report", in your issue of February 13, of the proceedings before Borough Council involving Mr. LaPlaca was in bad taste, to put it mildly. By what logic do you justify ridiculing a citizen for exercising his legal rights?

So that this letter may be evaluated properly, let me state that I would not recognize Mr. LaPlaca if I were to pass him on the street. Neither would I recognize the Messrs. Stuart and Coyle, publishers of this paper.

I can only conclude from what I have read in the local press that Mr. LaPlaca's "crime", for want of a better word, is that he is fighting to protect an investment in real estate. Whether we are honest in admitting it or not, essentially all of us — individuals and institutions — strive to maximize our incomes.

Many attempts to achieve this goal by seeking higher wages, salaries, and fringe benefits; others by investing in stocks and bonds, in businesses, in works of art, in real estate. Mr. LaPlaca obviously has many companions in "crime", including practically all the pillars of this community.

As a matter of fact, the Borough as a whole might be accused of the same "crime" as is Mr. LaPlaca. The Borough could have taken a financial loss by selling the Nassau School property to the PBHA. One can make the plausible argument that, because of its central location, this property is much more suitable for housing for the elderly than is Mr. LaPlaca's plot. I can only assume from recent events that the thought of the Borough's absorbing such a loss was never entertained.

Your "report" suggests that you look with dismay upon further legal proceedings which Mr. LaPlaca may institute. I share your apprehensions. To prevent such a long drawn out affair, and to permit PBHA to get on with building housing instead of arguing with Mr. LaPlaca, I would suggest a simple and direct approach based on that very crude but apt exhortation, "Put your money where your mouth is".

To be more specific, I would suggest that the Messrs. Stuart and Coyle take the initiative in forming a syndicate from among those who have been critical of Mr. LaPlaca. This syndicate should buy the property in question at its actual market value, and then sell it to the PBHA for the price set by PBHA. By this approach any loss in investment would be spread over many investors rather than being absorbed by only one.

I would further suggest that anyone who is unwilling to join such a syndicate, perhaps implying an unwillingness to absorb even a small fraction of the loss in investment which he is expecting Mr. LaPlaca to absorb alone, should refrain from criticizing Mr. LaPlaca in the future. After all, it is the easiest thing in the world to play the "great liberal" with someone else's money. It is somewhat harder to play the part with one's own.

GEORGE WARFIELD
19 Longview Drive

Editor's Note: While the actual market value of Mr. LaPlaca's property is open to speculation, he will hardly absorb a loss if he sells to the Housing Authority on its terms. Public records show — and the Housing Authority confirms — that the land in question cost him $20,000. The Housing Authority is prepared to pay him $94,200 — a gross profit in excess of 450% in the seven years since he acquired the property.

State Guide Book Ready

A 60-page booklet listing New Jersey's sporting, entertainment and cultural events for 1964 has just been published by the department of conservation and economic development. A special section will list Tercentenary events which will be held in many communities.

A second edition of the guide book will be published during the late Spring. It will be made available for the large number of New York World's Fair visitors who are expected to attend some of New Jersey's Tercentenary celebrations.

Free copies of the first edition can be obtained by writing to State Promotion, Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Box 1889, Trenton.

WRINKLES

by Marie Davant

New York: — Chemical science has found a white substance made with quicksilver that works wonders on wrinkled, roughened face and hands. Use it one time and it is entirely possible you will see improvement next morning. In a few days dry-skin wrinkles start to vanish. Many of the small ones around the eyes and mouth have already disappeared. But that is not all! "Old-Age" (weathered) brown spots on hands and arms — brown "age" darkness on surface of face and neck fades away! Rich oils lubricate pores so blackheads can slip out without squeezing. Surface pimples and blemishes and scars, outwardly caused, dry up or become less noticeable! But don't take my word for it. Make a 6-day test without risking one penny. Just get a jar of Peacock's Imperial Creme at your favorite department or drug store. Use this thrilling cream for 6 days—and if you are not delighted with results, full price will be refunded. No questions asked. Peacock's Imperial Creme can work wonders for wrinkles, lines, brown spots and other weathered blemishes. You may obtain Imperial Creme for $2.00 plus tax from Marsh & Co., 30 Nassau. Clip this out.

PENNINGTON

When [illegible] w falls and chill winds [illegible]ng, what could be nicer th[illegible]ing in front of a crackling fire in the living room fireplace, and when the kids start getting on your nerves, wouldn't it be nice to retreat to the full dry basement and enjoy the fire in the brick fireplace there? And with that cold wind blowing outside, it is so comforting to know that your heating bill for this 4 bedroom, 2 bath Cape Cod is only $120 a year A qualified buyer needs only $900 down. Near schools, too. You really should see this one.

Getting the kids to school is a snap from this nice 4 bedroom Cape Cod, for this home is just down the street from both the elementary and junior high schools Plenty of room for the kids, too — 4 bedrooms, a large backyard Excellent location and only $18,500

Phone any time about these or many other fine homes.

INCOME PROPERTY . . . this well-built, two-family house in a neighboring community has been completely renovated. One side has living room, dining room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath. Other side: living room, kitchen, 3 bedrooms, dressing room and bath. $24,500

RIVERSIDE . . . this fine home offers many features to commend it to the discerning homeseeker: living room with fireplace, master bedroom with ½ bath, 2 other bedrooms and bath, large playroom, kitchen with breakfast area and a fine lot with pretty trees. $34,500

FOUR BEDROOMS . . . and in the Borough, too! Here is a very spacious residence with carpeting throughout. Fully air-conditioned. Living room with fireplace, plus a dream of a kitchen. The paneled family room, powder room, 2 baths and 2-car garage complete a residence designed for comfort. $49,900

EXCLUSIVE LISTING . . . this three year old, custom-built home, on a lovely quiet street, features 4 bedrooms and 3 full baths. And it is distinguished for the thoughtful care that went into its building, which provides charm for its hostess, a study for the master, and romping room for the moppets. $52,500

IN THE WOODS . . . here is real rustic charm. Log house with wide, knotty-pine floors, walls paneled in old pine, vast fireplace, 2 bedrooms, 1 bath. At this price, a fieldstone wing with 2 more bedrooms and bath could easily be added without over-investing. $27,000

GREAT TASTE distinguishes this splendid residence on what is, perhaps, Princeton's finest street. Large, beautiful rooms for living in luxury and entertaining elaborately. 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, maid's room and bath. Handsome trees and professional landscaping give the grounds genuine seclusion. $83,500

STUART HILL
Here is, perhaps, Princeton's very choicest new residential area. 2 acre plots, magnificently wooded. Adjacent to the new Stuart Country Day School, and off the Great Road. Water, sewer and all utilities installed, of course. Several plots available this year.

TUDOR MANSE
IN THE HEART OF
PRINCETON'S WESTERN SECTION

Built in the hay days of the late twenties, this stone and stucco town house has been cleverly divided into two delightful dwellings, without changing its exterior appearance one whit. One unit consists of baronial entrance hall, fabulous, sunken living room with hammered-beam ceiling and spectacular English fireplace; cozy, paneled study; elegant dining room opening to a covered and screened porch; modernized kitchen; and powder room on the ground floor. Upstairs, five bedrooms and two baths, plus a master suite of bedroom, tilted dressing room, and bath. The second unit has long been rented and is producing income enough to pay all taxes and heating costs. It consists of living room with fireplace, dining room, kitchen, powder room, and, on the second floor, six bedrooms and three baths. This is truly one of a kind for the buyer who can use it.

WE NOMINATE

John Frederick Bernard, 40-year old insurance executive and an advocate of the strenuous life, who over the past six years has contributed immeasurably to the well-being and happiness of several hundred hockey-conscious Princeton youngsters. As founder and continuing impressario of Princeton's Pee Wee Hockey Program the durable Bernard—together with a dozen other volunteer "coaches and managers" of widely varying ages and sizes — devotes some 4 months annually to teaching the wonders and intricacies of hockey and the fundamentals of sportsmanship to some 160 boys ranging in years from 6 to 13 and divided into two brackets, 6 through 8 and 9 through 13.

Starting around December 1 and continuing into late March, the Pee Wees, organized by Bernard in 1958 on the basis of his pre-Princeton experience as founding president of the North Jersey Pee Wee Hockey League, take possession of the University's Hobart Baker Rink on Friday evenings and Saturday mornings. Fridays, from 6:15 until 7:15, are given over to the younger "farm clubs," while on Saturdays at the crack of dawn (around 6:30) this community's counterpart of professional hockey's "big time" (e.g. The New York Rangers and the Boston Bruins) combine instruction and intramural competition, which is culminated by thoughtfully planned "outside encounters."

In supervising this major undertaking, that ranks among the largest programs of its kind in the country and has a waiting-list of amazing proportions, Bernard is translating into fact his conviction that "good hockey players must start young." As interested as he is in developing athletic ability of a high order and in recognizing "natural skaters," he is more concerned with totality of the program and its benefits for boys on all levels of talent. He encourages boys to teach other boys and feels that this is the most effective way of teaching skills and values: he once noted, "When you like kids and you like hockey, what's a better job than coaching Pee Wee hockey?"

The enthusiasm generated by Bernard and his associates recalled the statement made several years ago by a veteran observer who maintained that "anybody associated with hockey is a nut"—meaning a devotee willing to give unstintingly of himself to the advancement of the sport. Bernard and the program's non-skating business manager, Fred H. Wandelt, Jr., have had no difficulties in recruiting supervisory and administrative manpower and point out that their one insoluble problem is the popularity of the venture and the resultant deluge of applications for the 15 openings made available each spring by the "graduation" of over-age Pee Wees.

Massachusetts-born, and two decades ago captain of hockey at Phillips Exeter Academy (N.H.), this officer of the Princeton firm of Sturhahn, Dickenson and Bernard has made hockey his first advocation as long as he can remember and had his own two sons skating at ages 2 and 3. An outstanding defenseman here at the University in post-World War II winters, following his return from nearly three years with the Army's Armored Force, he launched his insurance career in Hartford in the early 1950's, spent five years in North Jersey with The Phoenix Connecticut Group of Insurance Companies, and six years ago this month became a Hopewell-to-Princeton commuter.

For his key role in the development of a program of prime significance to a considerable segment of Princeton youth; for supplying the kind of thoughtful leadership which has linked the interests and efforts of adults and youngsters alike; he is our nominee as
